

Engineers' Map Showing Exact Path of Tornado

STORM EMERGENCY PASSING, REHABILITATION WORK NEXT; FUND NOW TOTALS $615,000

What the Map Shows

THE path which the tornado took as it swept down upon the city is accurately plotted in the map shown here. It was prepared by the engineers of the St. Louis Fire Prevention Bureau.

The sections of the city most heavily damaged are indicated by shaded lines. A solid black line, on either side, shows the districts where secondary damage was done, while the dotted line marks the extreme limits of the tornado's effect.

The windstorm made a sudden right angle turn as it rushed out of the southwest, the map shows, veering over toward the extreme southeast corner of Forest Park to vent its fury on the St. Louis University High School building and other structures near the edge of the park. This is the only major deviation in the diagonal line which it cut across the city.

The map reveals several freaks of the storm's behavior. Central High School (indicated by shaded circle on Grand between Piney and Windsor) is outside the area which received even slight damage and yet the structure was badly damaged and five students killed there. Here and there, particularly as the storm approached the river, little patches of almost complete destruction are shown, outside the main path of the tornado.

SURVEY FINDS 1500 FAMILIES WILL REQUIRE RED CROSS AID

Tornado Zone Divided Into 27 Districts and Trained Social Workers Are Put in Charge.

NEW HOMES SOUGHT FOR NEGRO REFUGEES

Gifts of Clothing Continue to Come In, but Demand at the Distribution Centers Is Great.

Six days after the tornado, the Red Cross relief and rehabilitation fund today reached $615,000.

Contributions continue to swamp the fund committee, and no limit has been set on the total to be raised, the Red Cross officers having decided, before the original goal of $500,000 was passed yesterday, that twice that much might be required. All the money has come from St. Louis, except for the American Red Cross contribution of $25,000, and several large gifts by former residents or those having business interests here.

Emergency relief is rapidly giving way to economic rehabilitation, which will take by far the greater part of the money contributed. Lengthening lines of tornado sufferers, at the Lindell cutoff headquarters of the Red Cross today talked with committee workers of their needs, for restoration to family life and wage-earning capacity. Mrs. E. H. Steedman, president of the Community Council, is head of the Rehabilitation Committee.

1500 Families Need Help. Fifteen hundred families of the 4000 more or less affected by the storm, will require substantial help in rehabilitation. It is estimated by E. G. Steger, director of field service. For the remainder, the temporary relief already given, and to be continued in many cases for a few days longer, will suffice.

For the demands of the remaining relief work, the devastated area, 235 square blocks, has been divided into 27 districts, with a trained social service worker in charge of each.

Issuance of orders, or requisitions, on retail stores, for food and emergency articles, chiefly bedding, is a large part of the task of relief. Because of the large number of these requisitions, not all used to the limit, and the delay of some storekeepers in presenting them for payment, it has not been possible, the committee heads say, to make any satisfactory estimate of daily expenditures in relief work.

The problem of the Housing Committee, as stated by its chairman, Circuit Clerk Schnoll, at today's meeting of the committee, is to find 263 houses for white families and 142 for Negro families. In addition to those who have been moved; and to provide substantial repairs for 475 houses occupied by whites and 250 dwellings for Negroes.

Schnoll, whose figures vary somewhat from the round numbers stated by some other relief workers, estimated that 3000 families had been moved, or had moved themselves, out of the storm area, and that about 400 families remained to be moved, but that some of the latter could resume living in their present homes after emergency repairs.

The chief difficulty continues to be in finding homes for Negro families. According to real estate agents' lists, 400 dwellings were far rent to Negroes before the tornado, but many of these were in the tornado district, and are now uninhabitable. A plan for a tent colony has been suggested, but was voted down by the committee, which will redouble the effort to find homes. Nearly 250 Negroes stayed at Ford College last night, and 150 at various churches.

Great Demand for Clothing. Large gifts of clothing continue, but the demand is also great. The

MORE REBEL MEXICAN CHIEFTAINS EXECUTED

Gen. Serrano, Former Calles War Secretary, Among Leaders and Former Army Officers Shot.

REVOLT CRUSHED, SAYS GOVERNMENT

Deputies Vote Confidence in President; Labor Assures Support; Governors Loyal.

By the Associated Press. NOGALES, ARIZ., Oct. 5.—A dispatch from Mexico City to the St. Louis Herald says several persons were killed and many injured in street rioting yesterday in the Mexican capital. Among the dead is a nephew of Congressman Thomas Robinson of the State of Texas. His relatives have confirmed this report.

By the Associated Press. MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—Declaration that the rebellious military movement has been crushed with the exception of two small forces, one of them commanded by the presidential candidate, Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, was made today by Gen. Alvarez, chief of the presidential staff.

While Government forces were stated to be in active pursuit of the two bands still in the field, further executions in the campaign of the Calles Government to stamp out the military revolt were announced. Last night the bodies of Gen. Francisco Serrano, a presidential candidate with Gen. Gomez against the candidacy of former President Obregon, and 13 of his followers, were brought to Mexico City. The men had been executed on charges of being responsible for the mutiny of the garrison of Mexico City late last night when about 800 men marched out of the city and took the field.

With candles burning around his car but with no priest present, the body of Gen. Serrano, once a close friend of Obregon, today rested in his aged mother's home in Mexico City. Serrano leaves a wife, two small sons, and brothers, among other relatives.

Executed With Their Leader. The others executed with Serrano, who once was Calles' Secretary of War, were: Gen. Carlos A. de la Huerta, Governor of the State of Chihuahua; Miguel and Daniel Perillo; Attorney Rafael Martinez, political leader and supporter of Gen. Arnulfo Gomez in his presidential campaign; Alonso Capetill, Attorney General; Antonio Jauregui, Errandito, Jose Villa Arce, Attorney General; and Enrique Montealegre and former Gen. Carlos V. de la Huerta.

Several other lesser rebel leaders have been executed. As part of the campaign to stamp out the revolt, the Attorney General has announced that the government will move to confiscate all property of persons accused of being guilty of revolution. President Calles is declared by his friends to be emerging from the present situation with enhanced strength, fulfilling his announced intention of crushing the revolutionary movement. VEILED PROPHET PARADE WILL BE HELD ON OCT. 19, BALL ON FOLLOWING NIGHT

THE Veiled Prophet parade will be held on Wednesday night, Oct. 19, and the ball on Thursday, Oct. 20. The elaborate decoration of the Coliseum for the ball will be preserved intact for the storm sufferers' benefit of the Municipal Theater Association on Friday night, Oct. 21.

The parade and ball had been postponed from last night and tonight because it was recognized that recovery in the midst of the storm calamity would be highly improper. It now is felt that the city has risen above the storm and can amply provide for the economic rehabilitation of all suffering families, and hence, the Veiled Prophet celebration can be a fitting celebration of the city's fortitude.

The original plans for the parade and ball hold. The line of the parade will be as originally announced for last night. Tickets of admission to the ball issued for tonight will be honored for the Oct. 20 ball.

NORWEGIAN SENT $1 TO JOHN D. TO BET FOR HIM ON DEMPSEY

Ed Millionaire Returned the Money to the Owner Before the Fight.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Believing, apparently, that whatever John D. Rockefeller touched turned to gold, a man in Norway sent a dollar bill to the aged millionaire with a request that he place it as a bet on Jack Dempsey in his recent fight with Gene Tunney.

"Dear Mr. Rockefeller," the note read, "I am sending you greetings and best wishes from Norway. Would you be so kind as to place a dollar for me that Dempsey will win over Tunney? I hope that you will bring me luck. My heartiest best wishes."

Rockefeller, it was learned today, returned the money before the fight, thereby leaving unimpaired whatever faith the Norwegian had in the magical golden touch.

FIVE TO BE SHOT AS SPIES

Forty-five Others Imprisoned After Trial in Ukraine.

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, Russia, Oct. 4.—Five persons charged with espionage in behalf of Poland have been sentenced to death and 45 to various terms of imprisonment.

Their trial was held at Kamnys-Podolskiy, Ukraine.

TWO MEN SHOT IN OLD FEUD OVER $100 'FIXING' FEE

Clarence Hicks, Bondsman, Wounded at Sixth and Chestnut — Stray Bullet Hits Roy Tyson, Waiter.

A three-year-old quarrel over $100, which, police say, was paid to "fix" a witness in a robbery case, resulted last night in the shooting, at Sixth and Chestnut streets, of Clarence Hicks, a professional bondsman, and Roy Tyson, a bystander, and the arrest of David Klegman and Joseph O'Donnell, both of whom have police records.

Neither man was seriously wounded. Hicks, who is 40 years old and lives at 4853 A Natural Bridge avenue, was shot in the right thigh. Tyson who is 28, a waiter, and lives at 523 Chestnut street, was shot in the right arm. Warrants charging assault to kill were issued today against Klegman and O'Donnell.

Klegman Held for Robbery. Klegman and another young man were identified in 1924 by Tony Pappas, candy store proprietor, as the pair who held him up in front of his home, 3502 Franklin avenue, and took $3. Later Pappas identified Hicks, the bondsman, as a man who gave him $100 not to identify Klegman and the other defendant.

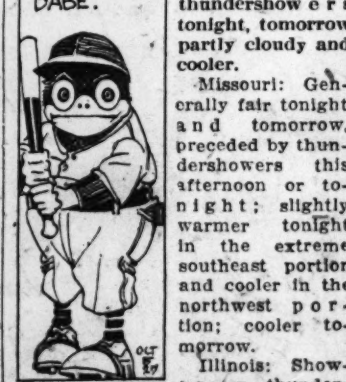

When Pappas testified before the grand jury, despite his acceptance of money to keep silent, return of the $100 was demanded by a woman who had interested herself in the case. Pappas paid her $35, withholding the other $5 for his robbery loss and his trouble. Police understand that this is the $100 which Klegman asserted Hicks owed him. The $35, incidentally, reposes in the office safe of Circuit Attorney Sidener, who seized it as evidence in the attempted bribery of Pappas. A charge of attempted bribery against Hicks was nolle-prossed after the woman, to whom Pappas returned $35, was acquitted on her story that she did not know why the $100 has been paid to Pappas. Klegman and his co-defendant in the robbery case were acquitted when Pappas did not positively identify them. Although both cases are closed, Sunset, 5:38; sunrise (tomorrow), 6:02.

WOMAN, 70, TERRORIZED BY STORM, DIES OF SHOCK

Mrs. Rose Lakin Virtually Paralyzed by Fear When Tornado Took Off Roof.

Mrs. Rose Lakin, 70 years old, died today at City Hospital from an intestinal spasm, brought on by fright when the roof of her home at 3003 North Twenty-third street, was blown off in the tornado. She was treated at home until yesterday when she was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Lakin was in a room on the third floor of the house at the time of the storm. She suffered no physical injuries but was virtually paralyzed by fright.

COOLIDGES MARRIED 22 YEARS

Anniversary Celebrated Quietly at the White House.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—President and Mrs. Coolidge celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary quietly yesterday, no unusual festivities marking the event. A few extra flowers were brought in from the White House garden and the President was understood to have given Mrs. Coolidge a remembrance token, but otherwise there was nothing to distinguish the day from any other. A number of congratulatory messages were received from friends and relatives.

STORM RUINED 6600 TREES ON STREETS AND IN PARKS

City to Replant Them Where Property Owners Desire—Stately Growth of Years Destroyed in Tornado.

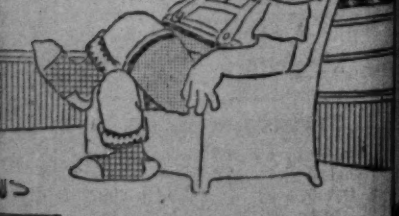

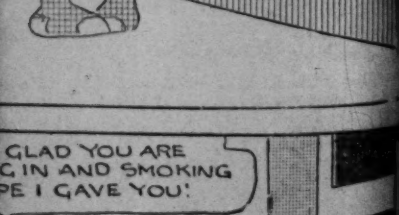

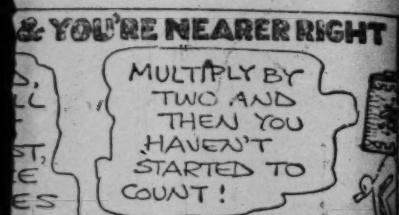

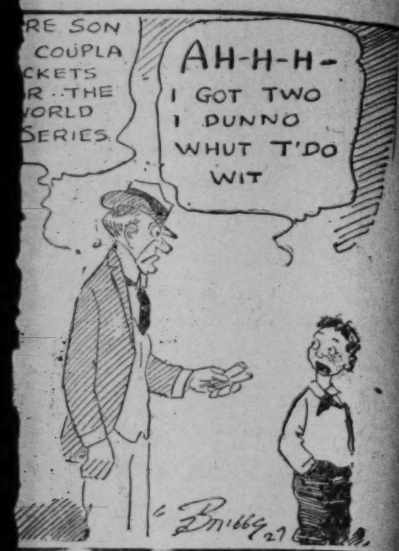

At least 6000 trees, chiefly sycamores, maples and elms, were destroyed on city streets in the tornado zone. Acting Park Commissioner Strehle estimated today after a comprehensive survey.

On Forest Park avenue alone, 125 beautiful trees in the parkway, including some sycamores and elms about 40 years old, were ruined. Lindell and West Pine boulevards, Maryland avenue and other residential streets suffered heavy losses.

In addition to the street trees, about 600 trees in Hyde Park, Forest Park, Fairground Park, St. Louis and other parks were destroyed. It will be years before all the trees are replaced and many more years before the stature and beauty of those destroyed is attained, Strehle said. For that reason, he said, he could not estimate the monetary loss.

The city plants trees for $7 each, charged against the owner of the abutting property. If a tree dies, another is planted without charge. Property owners wanting trees may apply to the Park Commissioner.

In treeless districts, it has been the practice of the Park Department to publish in the City Journal an announcement that trees would be planted if a majority of the property owners consented, the procedure being similar to that for paving. Because of the heavy property loss in the tornado, Strehle believes Park Commissioner Pape, on his return to the city tomorrow, will decide not to force trees on anyone, but to plant all trees for which property owners apply. The park trees will be paid for with park funds.

BARRED FROM HOME, WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

New Jersey Woman Physician Says Husband, First Cousin, Shunned Her.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—An unusual story of 12 years of unhappily married life as the wife of Carl Berger, wealthy Ridgewood, N. J., physician and politician, is related by Mrs. Violette Arleman Berger, physician and poet decorated with many honors, in an application for alimony and counsel fees pending hearing of a divorce suit.

Among other things, Mrs. Berger says Berger refused to live with her. They were married Oct. 11, 1915.

His refusal to live with her attributes to the fact that they are first cousins, but she admits his generosity. Although, as she states in her petition, "it is an uncanny habit" declines to permit her to live in his "mysterious" iron-barred house in Queensborough, New York, he gave her $12,000 as a wedding present, $12,000 under a separation agreement, and for a time $100 a week maintenance.

In his preliminary bill he denies he was husband in name only, and recites that his fortune is $250,000 instead of $1,000,000, as Mrs. Berger contends.

Shortly after their marriage Mrs. Berger went to France, where she became chief of staff in a war hospital, and later went into Poland on an armed hospital train. At this time she received the French Croix de Guerre for bravery.

From July, 1915, to February, 1923, she says, was spent in Poland fighting cholera and spotted fever. She was awarded the Polish Medal Virtute Militaire, the First Class decoration of Middle Lithuania and the Heller War Cross, etc.

Returning home, she found her husband "secluded in his 'miserable' house with no front door, only a small side entrance and with all the first floor windows guarded by bars and opaque glass.

Rather than live with her, she alleges, he agreed to pay her $100 a week in April, 1923, but discontinued payment in October, 1923. Nearly every payment, she says, was accompanied by a note which ended, "Inclosed find $100 with love, kisses and a great big hug."

Call to Luncheon Saves Him.

Mr. J. Haynes, an architect, of 1111 McPherson avenue, attributes his escape from the storm to the fact that just a moment before it struck his home, laying it in ruins, he was called to luncheon.

He had been sitting in his study in a room on the second floor going over some plans. The room was entirely blown away, only a portion of the flooring remaining.

A watch which Haynes had bought with prize money he won years ago when, as a young architect he had submitted plans for a competition for the old Exposition Building, was found during the storm. Monday afternoon, a Negro workman found it, undamaged, lying beneath a pile of bricks blown from the house.

During the afternoon also the workman found an antique oil lamp which had been in the Haynes family several generations and which had been misplaced several months.

The pin, for which Haynes had been unsuccessfully several times, was found in a pile of litter in the yard.

Mrs. Cornahan, who said the air seemed filled with mud, which landed her at the time of the storm, suffered severe cuts of her hand when a door was blown off on it, as she was feeling her way in a basement door.

ONLY BLIND LUCK SAVED THEIR LIVES, SURVIVORS SAY

Time Too Scant for Seeking Refuge When Storm Hit, Hence Chance Played a Large Part.

ROOM RUINED AFTER ARCHITECT QUITS IT

Dr. John F. Troupe Obeys Impulse and Leaves Study in Church Just Before Wall Collapses on Desk.

"Blind staggering luck," to quote the phrase frequently used by refugees of the tornado, made the difference between life and death for numerous survivors, who have told their stories to Post-Dispatch reporters.

Few lessons were learned as to the proper behavior of persons caught in a tornado. Aside from the general principle that the center of a house is safest, no survivor thus far questioned has laid out an escape to reasoned action. The storm struck with such suddenness that few were able to seek refuge in basements. Positions of safety removed from wreckage of houses indicate that victims were killed where they happened to be, and probably would have been killed at any point in the houses, complete was the collapse.

Bodies were found on the streets, also, showing no certain cause could have been gained by making out of doors. The survivors of Two Tornadoes.

Mrs. Anthony Lopez, 4136 Delmar boulevard, has been through the second tornado in St. Louis. With her husband, she went through the storm of 1896, when one of her belongings were lost. 2 WOMEN KILLED BY AUTOS WHEN CROSSING STREETS

Mrs. Rose Wenzel, 62, Struck Early This Morning, Mrs. Mary McCarthy, 76, Last Evening

Two women were killed when struck by automobiles, last night and today.

They were Mrs. Rose Wenzel, 62, years old, of 5253 Paulina place and Mrs. Mary McCarthy, 76, of 5605A Easton.

Jessie Montgomery, 38 years old, Negro laborer, 1128 North Ninth street, died at 2:15 p. m. today at City Hospital No. 2, after being struck by a truck driven by Paul Williams, 24, 4135A Blaine avenue.

William told police he was backing to the curb in front of 804 Morgan street, when he felt his truck hit something. Investigating, he found Montgomery knocked to the ground.

Montgomery suffered internal injuries, and died without making a statement.

Mrs. Wenzel was killed at 6:40 a. m. today when struck by a machine driven by Elmer S. McElyea, 23 years old, of 1205 Mississippi avenue, as she was crossing Union boulevard at Paulina place.

When taken to the nearby office of a physician, she was pronounced dead. Her skull had been fractured.

McElyea, arrested and taken to Page Boulevard Station, told police he was driving at a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour when Mrs. McCarthy and the child suddenly stepped into the path of his machine.

He did not have time to stop. McCarthy was killed instantly. He is being held pending outcome of an inquest.

Mrs. McCarthy was crossing Easton avenue near her home with her granddaughter, Rose Ryan, 9 years old, when struck by a machine driven by Frank Rigali, 17 years old, of 7000 Page boulevard, last midnight.

Rigali, who was arrested, told police he was driving at a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour when Mrs. McCarthy and the child suddenly stepped into the path of his machine.

150 OF THE BEST HYDE PARK TREES FELLED BY STORM

Patriarchal Sycamores and Venerable Horse-Chestnuts Can't Be Replaced in Three Decades.

Three minutes of tornado in Hyde Park, Louis in its 73rd year, felled 150 of the best city and neighborhood trees, destroyed shade trees that it will take 25 years to replace. The wind pushed over patriarchal sycamores and venerable horse chestnut trees.

A few young poplars and maples were blown down because the older trees, in falling, overbore them.

In the small neighborhood park, covering about two square blocks, the old sycamores and horse chestnuts, the storm felled from 150 to 200 trees. Richard Hirschberg, the custodian, says the wind took his prize trees, "just as if it had 'em marked'."

"We can build up that bandstand in a day or two," Hirschberg says, "but what are you going to do about replacing a big tree like that?" He pointed to a huge stump where an old sycamore had been snapped like a match.

"You're going to have to wait 25 or 30 years until some of these little fellows here gets grown. Twenty-five years and maybe 30 years before this park has trees in it like the ones the storm took."

Lashed by Tail of Tornado.

It was the tail of the tornado, heading eastward, that had turned north, that swished through the old park, knocking over a small forest. A block away it reduced Holy Trinity church, on Fourth street, and the neighborhood streets, to wreckage. It carried off the second and third stories of 3-story houses. It sped riverward, knocking over big smokestacks at several industrial plants.

Elyea explained, it spared one of the oldest buildings in the neighborhood at the northeast corner of the park, Engine House No. 8. Back in the '50s, the neighborhood was a German settlement, and it later became a public market. Then a German meeting hall was built there. A volunteer fire company was recruited from the neighborhood.

The old building lost only a few bricks and directly behind it the new transformer plant for the city lighting system did not suffer at all. In the center of the park the old style fountain, with its heads of Greek gods and goddesses, crashed in the sight of Zeus but the fountain was unscathed.

Children Swam in Park.

Grown folk in the Hyde Park neighborhood have memories or have stayed out of the park since the storm, because a dozen workmen are hacking and sawing at the dead timber, but the neighborhood children have swarmed there as they do usually only in the winter time when there is ice on the pond.

In 1896, the tornado tore into Lafayette park, on the South Side, and wrought wreckage there. Thirty-one years later, it hit on the north side, wrecking little Hyde Park, having passed over the south side park completely.

The brewery that takes its name from the park, two blocks away, a big building, covering an entire block and with-castelled roofing, suffered in the storm. A big stack went down, a roof fell in, bricks were toppled from a tower. It looks, from certain angles, as if it had been raided by a particularly agile Carrie Nation with ladder and a sledge hammer.

LAWTON RIGHT-ANGLE BEND

AT BEAUMONT ELIMINATED

The cut-off which eliminates the right-angled bend in Lawton boulevard, at Beaumont avenue, has been completed, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks announced today. The project cost $23,500.

Brooks also announced the paving of the new boulevard between the Spring and Vandeventer avenues would be completed by the end of the week. The work has been delayed by the necessity of using paving workmen in the tornado zone.

"As I stopped at the corner," Hicks related, "O'Donnell opened a door of my car and covered me with a revolver, saying: 'We've got you now and we're going to give you what we promised.' I grabbed the revolver, and he fired a shot which went wild. Klegman aimed a revolver at me, and when I made a grab for it, he shot me in the leg."

"Then I got my automatic pistol out of the pocket of the O'Donnell ran away. Klegman dropped his weapon, and I covered him until police came up."

Tyson, who was nearby during the shooting, was struck by a stray bullet.

O'Donnell escaped in a Chrysler automobile, but was arrested later when he returned for his Buick, abandoned at the scene. A Cuckoo

WOMAN SLAYER GOES BACK TO ASYLUM AFTER 9 YEARS

Mrs. Mary Folsom Surrenders Voluntarily — After Escape She Assumed New Name and Built Up Successful Business.

By the Associated Press.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 5.—After building up a successful business in Troy, N. Y., under an assumed name, Mrs. Mary Folsom, slayer of her husband, has returned voluntarily to the State Hospital for the Insane from which she fled nine years ago. She had been confined for shooting Henry H. Folsom, wealthy Boston lawyer, who was once a football star at Dartmouth.

All trace of her had been lost from the day she disappeared until she presented herself yesterday at the home of Dwight Hall of Dover, her guardian and trustee of her estate.

"My conscience has been bothering me. I want to go back to Concord," she said. She was taken back by her guardian.

Mrs. Folsom originally came under psychopathic attention in 1909. She accused her husband of affairs with other women. He did not take the charges seriously at first, but later consulted a physician who ordered her committed to a hospital for the insane at Belmont, Mass. Two years later she was released.

Her hallucinations returned with increasing severity and in 1914 she was persuaded to go to the Folsom summer place at Exeter, N. H. Mrs. Folsom met the lawyer as he arrived for a week-end visit. A short time later she was found shooting at his lifeless body.

"Yes, I killed him," she shrieked as she was led away. "He had no business to go around with other women."

She was committed to the hospital, where yesterday she surrendered. It is near Dover, where she was born 53 years ago.

Mrs. Folsom told authorities here she had gone directly to Troy after her second escape. There she took the name of Mary Rust, worked hard for three years as a domestic until she had acquired sufficient funds to open a little bakery.

The shop was a success and under the simple legend "we cook and serve" on a diminutive sign adorned only by the picture of a smiling boy, she built up an exclusive catering trade.

Neighbors found the door of her shop unlocked Sunday and on the dining room table were the keys. A year after she had been committed to the hospital she escaped, but returned in men's clothes.

Heroism and Hard Work Of Firemen and Police Among Tornado Debris

Chiefs Praise Their Men Who Turned Out Promptly for Duty, Rescuing the Injured and Clearing the Streets.

ST. LOUIS firemen and policemen did heroic work in tornado relief and by long hours of loyal and efficient labor won from their chiefs today the highest praise.

Chief Alt of the Fire Department said: "I'm proud of my men and the work they did. Their spirit was wonderful. Many worked 48 hours the first stretch. Others put in 12 hours on fire patrol in the tornado district and then held themselves in readiness to answer alarms at their stations. The firemen were on the scene with police at the first call. They saved many lives, taking persons from dangerous ruins, and performed the hard task of recovering bodies of victims."

Chief Gerk of the Police Department said: "Ask me what my men did and I ask you, 'What didn't they do?' For five days many have been on the job from 7 o'clock in the morning until 2 the next morning and then back at work at 7 again. Police were everywhere, doing everything. They prevented traffic jams by working with axes to clear the streets; they saved hundreds of lives by prompt handling of live wires; they took the wounded to hospitals and the dead to the morgue; they prevented another catastrophe by holding crowds in the devastated area in check."

Firemen Mobilized at Once.

When the tornado struck at 1 p. m. last Thursday, it put 1220 of the 1761 fire alarm boxes out of commission. Four hundred and fifty of the department's 975 men were off duty scattered about the city. All the fire companies in the stricken area turned out full speed within a few minutes after the tornado passed and began the work of rescue. Meanwhile a call was sent out on the radio. "All firemen report for duty at their station houses."

Firemen heard the call themselves, or neighbors heard it and ran to tell them. Street cars were blocked to auto traffic by debris. This meant firemen had to walk. One man walked four miles from Virginia avenue and Russell boulevard to Kingshighway and Delmar. Many were farther away than that. A fireman was vacationing at Lincoln Beach on the Meramec when he heard the call. He set out for town a few minutes later. A group was fishing at Creve Coeur Lake. They came into town on the double-quick and reported for duty.

"By 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon," Chief Alt says, "every man in the department, except a few on sick list, was at his post."

There followed 48 hours of ceaseless activity. Chief Alt himself did not get to bed until 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Pick and Shovel Work.

Even the men of the mechanical repair departments turned out and worked with picks and shovels and bare hands, searching for persons buried in the wreckage. Two men pinioned in the ruins at Central High School were saved in the first rush of the rescue parties. At 2 p. m. Friday morning Superintendent of Instruction Maddox notified Chief Alt that he believed five girls students to be under the wreckage at the high school. From that hour 20 men under Chief Alt's direction worked until 3:30 p. m. the next day, recovering all five bodies.

"We had to go through solid concrete, as two floors had collapsed over the room where the last bodies lay," the Chief commented.

On Page boulevard between Prairie and Whittier, firemen removed nine bodies from ruins. At Page and Prairie they took eight men and three bodies from a burning building. Chief Alt says all would have died had the firemen been less prompt. Seven men were rescued from a collapsed building at Jefferson and St. Louis avenues. One died. At Enright and Sarah firemen dug for 20 minutes through three feet of brick and removed a two-month-old baby alive without a scratch on it.

Three bodies at Whittier and Maryland; three on North Grand boulevard, one at Grand and St. Louis; four dead at Newstead and Duncan—so ran the list and each body recovered represented hours of dirty dangerous toil.

Fire Patrols Posted.

With its own alarm system badly crippled, the Fire Department posted a fire patrol of 120 men, who walked 12 hours and then held themselves in readiness to answer alarms the other 12 hours. Outside fire alarms beyond the tornado district were as numerous as usual and these had to be answered on the jump.

"My men worked hours over wreckage where persons believed bodies to be and found nothing," Chief Alt said. "False alarms did not discourage them. We would go to the bottom of any building where there was the slightest doubt expressed by anybody as to the buildings being clear."

Police Answer the Call.

The Police Department faced the same conditions as to mobilization for tornado duty as the Fire Department. Telephone wires were down and the radio was resorted to. Patrolmen on the beats all over town notified all brother officers who lived on their beats. Officers ran and walked for blocks to reach posts of duty. Officers on vacation far and near started for St. Louis post-haste. One man was at Blytheville, Ark. He packed Thursday afternoon and was here for duty Friday. Several policemen hurried from Chicago, where they were vacationing.

"We suspended recreation days and furloughs except for emergency demands and settled down to 12-hour shifts," Chief Gerk related. "But I didn't get any sleep until midnight Friday and many officers were on the go as long."

Spitting live wires in the streets were the first concern of police squads thrown into the tornado area before the wind had died down. The Union Electric Co. co-operated by cutting conduits feeding these wires and the United Railways shut off power lines.

"It was miraculous a thousand persons were not electrocuted in the debris," Chief Gerk remarked.

WIDOW OF SLAIN DOCTOR ADMITS GETTING LETTERS

Mrs. Lilliendahl Says She Received Mail From Neighbor Under Name of Peggy Anderson.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—Hopes of State and county police that Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl would re-enact the events leading to the murder of her husband Sept. 15 in a lonely road, four miles from Hammonton, were blasted yesterday when the widow refused to leave her home in South Vine-land.

Instead she sat in a rocking chair, and in several hours questioning by Chief of County Detectives Frank Harrold, admitted the first time that she had received the "Peggy Anderson" letters from Willis Beach, a family friend which were found scattered about the automobile in which Dr. William Lilliendahl was found murdered.

Beach, who fled just before a warrant was issued charging him with aiding and abetting in the killing, still is missing.

Wavers Under Questioning.
 The widow's constant reiteration that the men who shot and killed her husband were Negroes, wavered under Harrold's questioning.

"They wore slouch hats pulled well down over their foreheads and eyes. I could not see their features," she said.

"Why, then, did you say they were Negroes?" asked Harrold.

"Well," she replied, "if my hands were sunburned they would look like a Negro's hands, I suppose."

After her husband was shot she said she heard one of the men say, "Beat it, Bo!"

Harrold asked her if she screamed.

"No. I was paralyzed with fright. I couldn't speak. I couldn't move."

Admits Quarrel With Husband.
 Although Dr. Lilliendahl was shot three times in the head and neck, the widow said she heard only one shot. She admitted she had quarreled with her husband over Beach, but said it was due to gossip.

She added, however, that she received the "Peggy Anderson" letters at the general delivery window in the South Vine-land postoffice.

With police still searching for Beach, Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle was preparing evidence to submit to the grand jury tomorrow. He said he expected to ask for an indictment, naming not more than two persons.

DAY OF ATONEMENT TO BEGIN AT JEWISH TEMPLES TONIGHT

Rabbis Will Speak Tomorrow on Subjects Pertaining to Hebrew Sacred Day.

Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement" of the Jews will be observed in synagogues with services beginning this evening at sundown and continuing until sundown tomorrow.

At 10 a. m. tomorrow Rabbi Thureman will talk on "The Radium of the Soul," and will conduct the memorial service at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow, when his subject will be "At Heaven's Gate."

Services at Shaare Emeth Temple, Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer boulevards, will be conducted by Rabbi Witt, who will talk on "Shaare Emeth at the Cross Roads" tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be a service at 10 a. m. tomorrow and a memorial service at 3 p. m.

The congregation of Temple Israel, Kingshighway and Washington boulevards, will hear Rabbi Harrison in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, which has been obtained to accommodate more than 4000 worshippers.

GUGGENHEIM FUND FINANCES PASSENGER AIR SERVICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The first equipment loan to encourage passenger carrying on American air lines under a policy adopted recently by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, was announced yesterday.

Harry F. Guggenheim, president, to finance the purchase of two tri-motored planes for use in a model passenger airway between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

This line will be operated by Western Air Express, whose president and general manager, Harry M. Hanshue, said negotiations would be entered into at once with aircraft manufacturers for the necessary ships. The loan is understood to involve about $150,000.

It is planned to maintain a three-hour daylight schedule over the 265-mile route, one plane leaving either terminal daily at 10:30 a. m. Hanshue promises passengers newspapers, magazines, radio entertainment, market reports and a luncheon service.

Inauguration of the service is expected early next year. The planes will carry 20 passengers each and additional cargo, bringing the total payload up to nearly two tons.

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?

The BLACKWELL-WIELANDY BOOK & STATIONERY COMPANY was founded in 1901, and, today, is the outstanding firm of its character in the West. This company is represented by 45 traveling salesmen in 37 states. It also has showrooms in 4 central cities, where samples of the many vast lines are displayed.

The company also operates a printing plant and bindery—one of the largest, most modern and best equipped plants in the West. One of the departments specializes in printing catalogues for large manufacturers and wholesalers, doing this class of work for customers as far away as the New England states.

BLACKWELL-WIELANDY BOOK & STATIONERY COMPANY is a large importer as well as wholesaler, and is an extensive manufacturer of its various lines. Its loose leaf note books are used in the leading colleges and universities all over the country.

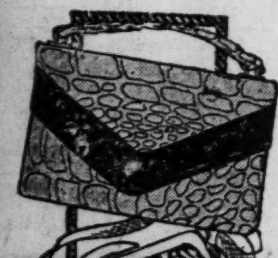

While the corporate name of the company would indicate that its business is devoted to books and stationery, it appears that a very large portion of its business is in holiday goods, gift items, toys, games and novelties—probably the most diversified and largest variety offered by any firm in the Middle West. This is an important factor in bringing far-distant buyers to the St. Louis market.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of St. Louis.

CALLS SCOUT WHO DIED ON RELIEF DUTY HERE

National Commissioner Sends
Parents of William L. Farrell
Message of Sympathy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Recognition of the service by Boy Scout William L. Farrell, St. Louis, who died while performing tornado relief there, was expressed in the following message from Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner, to the boy's parents:

"Accept my heartfelt sympathy for the loss of your heroic boy. He made the supreme sacrifice for the great cause of humanity. He lived like a true scout and like a true scout, died a hero. Mr. West and the entire staff at the national headquarters join me in profound admiration for his courage and in deepest sympathy for your loss."
Comrades Honor Scout Who Died in Service After Tornado.
Funeral services for William L.

Farrell, Boy Scout, who died last Saturday after finishing several hours' relief work in the storm area, were held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L.
Farrell, 912 LaSalle street, yesterday afternoon. Interment was in Valhalla Cemetery.

Part of the funeral service was the flower ceremony of the Boy Scouts, an honor given only to those having performed some outstanding service as Scouts. In this ceremony, twelve fellow members of Troop No. 67, the unit to which William belonged, each dropped a white flower on the casket, representing as he did so, one of the twelve scout laws.

As has been told, William had been ill when the call for Scouts to work in the storm area went out.
He insisted upon accompanying the other boys and worked Friday, part of the time in the rain, helping direct traffic. Saturday morning he returned to duty. At noon, with another Scout, he went to the home of a friend and there collapsed,
dying soon afterward.

SEEKS $9000 FROM PETER HAHN ESTATE

Mrs. Heidbreder Says Promise of Bequest as Payment for Services Was Not Kept.

That she cooked, scrubbed,
washed the clothes and performed secretarial labors for nine years without remuneration in a millionaire's household is the contention of Mrs. Katherine Heidbreder of 5500 South Kingshighway, whose suit for $9000 against the estate of Peter Hahn, president of the Buckingham Hotel Co., who died in 1925, went to trial yesterday before Circuit Judge Hogan and a jury. The trial was resumed today.

Witnesses testified that Mrs.
Heidbreder was brought to this country from Germany when she was 16 years old by Peter Hahn family and in 1908, when she threatened to sue Hahn for the due her, he promised to make her a substantial bequest in his will if she would withhold the suit. A.
L. Locattell, cashier of the Tower Grove Bank, testified that Hahn
once came to the bank with Mrs.
Heidbreder and requested that 200 shares of Burroughs Adding Machine be transferred to her, but the transfer was blocked because necessary endorsements were not made.

"I want this done," Locattell quoted Hahn—"I want this done in appreciation of her services to me."
Mrs. Heidbreder contends that Hahn's promise to make her a substantial bequest (made to her husband, William E. Heidbreder, who died last year) was in effect a contract.

Counsel for the estate contend that Mrs. Heidbreder was a member of the Hahn family, was Hahn's niece, and was treated by Hahn and his family, not as a servant, but as a social equal, and is therefore entitled to no money for her services. They also contend that Mrs. Heidbreder knew that she was not included in the Hahn will in 1922 when Mrs. Hahn died.
The will was a joint one, and could not be changed after Mrs. Hahn's death. The millionaire then president of the Buckingham Hotel Co.
died in 1925, and Mrs. Heid-breder filed her suit in April, 1926.

At his death, the bulk of Hahn's fortune went to his wife, friends or charitable institutions.

FLORIDA FARMER CONVICTED OF KILLING 2 DRY AGENTS
Also Faces Indictment for Death of Son, Slain More Than Year Ago.

PERRY, Fla., Oct. 5.—J. W. Buchannon, Taylor County farmer, was found guilty of first degree murder yesterday in connection with the slaying of W. C. Mobray, Federal prohibition agent, at Bu-channon's home near here last December.

Buchannon was found guilty several months ago of the slaying of J. T. Brandt, another prohibition officer, who was with Mobray.

Because of a mercy recommendation he then was sentenced to life imprisonment. The convicted man also faces an indictment in connection with the slaying of his son, Asbury Buchannon, who was killed
over a year ago.

POSTPONEMENT OF LINDBERGH
MEMORIAL CAMPAIGN PROBABLE
Committee to Meet Next Tuesday to Consider Later Date Because of Storm Disaster.

Postponing Lindbergh day and the beginning of a campaign for a memorial to the flying Colonel's achievement in his taken up in a meeting of the Spirit of St. Louis Memorial Committee at 10 a. m.
next Tuesday at Jefferson Memorial.

The date had been set for Nov.
15. Many members of the committee are engaged in tornado relief.
"In view of the great disaster," it was explained, "the Memorial Committee feels that it would not exemplify the spirit of St. Louis to carry on its work now in the face of such dire need on the part of so many of its citizens."

BENEFIT BY NEGRO DANCER
Bill Robinson, Negro buck-dancing dancer, appearing at the Orpheum, has arranged a benefit show at midnight tomorrow at the Booker T. Washington Theater, 2248 Market street, for tornado sufferers. Tickets will be 75 cents and all proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross. Frank Panus and his Orpheum Theater orchestra will furnish the music without pay.

The following entertainers from the Orpheum have agreed to appear: Neville Flesoon and Bobby Folsom, composer and musical comedy star, respectively; Billy Wells, comedian, and the Four Pays, a song and dance act; Jean Adair, the Broadway star; and Wilfrid du Bois, French comedian and juggler. White persons, as well as Negroes, are urged to attend the benefit.

NEGROES CARE FOR STORM SUFFERERS

Mrs. Malone Turns Poro College Into a Lodging House and Relief Center.

About 5000 meals are supplied daily to Negro storm victims by the Red Cross through Poro College, a Negro beauty culture institution at Fendleton and St. Ferdinand avenues, which is the central agency of the Red Cross for relief work among Negroes.

In addition to this service, lodging for more than 100 individuals has been provided in the auditorium of the institution, together with a nursery for women with babies. The overflow of lodgers from this place is housed at Sumner High School, Cottage and Fendleton, and Lane Tabernacle (A. M. E.), Enright and Newstead avenues.

The Poro College building is admirably adapted for an emergency of this kind, as it is modern in every respect, with a medical department and a staff, an operating room and a kitchen and dining room large enough for hotel requirements.

In this place first aid is administered to the slightly injured, and clothing, food and lodging are provided for others. Already several hundred Negro families in need of new homes have been housed through this center in co-operation with the Real Estate Exchange and other agencies.

Mrs. Annie Malone, wealthy founder and owner of the institution is in the East on business. As soon as she heard of the tornado she notified Charles S. Stone and Edgar E. McDaniel, her representatives, by long distance telephone, to throw open the college to storm victims and devote all its resources to relief work.

The Red Cross then assigned W. H. Lambert of the Lambert-Graves Motor Co. Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Grossberg, Leo Dinsbury, T. S. Monroe and W. E. Patrick to supervise the work, and with the aid of Stone and McDaniel relief measures were quickly organized.

About 200 persons are fed daily at the institution, and other meals are carried to families who have not left their damaged homes.

Red Cross workers express amazement at the fortitude and spirit of the Negro as they have found him in distress. They cite a case of a man and wife with 13 children in a badly damaged home on Enright avenue, who, although without provisions, could scarcely be induced to accept food, this family urging that others could be found in greater distress more deserving of the aid.

Among those cared for at Poro were Mrs. R. L. Tapp, 4024 Pine avenue, who with her two children, 3 and 4 years old, was imprisoned from Thursday until Saturday night in the basement by the collapse of their home. They escaped injury, but were ill from shock and hunger.

Mrs. Lucille Blackman, 4044 West Belle place, who found a refuge at Poro, was on the third floor of her home when the storm came. The interior of the house collapsed. The floor on which Mrs. Blackman stood stopped at the street level and she stepped out through the front door uninjured. Those on the lower floors were killed.

Poro College will be kept open for relief work until all refugees have been provided for.

MINISTER HELD FOR BIGAMY TO OFFER AMNESIA AS DEFENSE

Trial of the Rev. W. F. Jordan Opens Today at Charlotte, N. C., Scene of Alleged Offense.

By the Associated Press. CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 5.—Indicted yesterday by the Mecklenburg County grand jury, the Rev. Willis F. Jordan, Columbus, Ga., minister, will go on trial here today on a charge of bigamy.

He was arrested in Grand Rapids, Mich., after it had been reported he was kidnapped from his home in Columbus. Since last Friday when he was returned to Charlotte, he has been in the county jail unable to give $10,000 bail.

The indictment charges that Jordan married Mrs. Emma Langridge of Washington, D. C., while he had a living and undivorced wife. The marriage is alleged to have occurred in the office of Magistrate J. M. Alexander on Aug. 19, last. Mrs. Langridge-Jordan is the prosecuting witness. Solicitor John G. Carpenter of Gastonia said after the indictment was returned that he had today received a telegram from Mrs. Laura Jordan at Zion, Ill., asserting that Jordan married her at Oswego, Kan., Sept. 6, 1925, and that they had five living children. She will not be a witness in the case.

The defense has announced that it will plead that Jordan is a victim of amnesia and Tom P. Jimison, attorney for Jordan, indicated that his client's sanity might be questioned.

Mrs. Yancy Jordan of Windmill, W. Va., who Jordan says is his only "true wife," and who is reported to have started for Charlotte, had not arrived tonight.

Order to Facilitate Sanitation. A request that all persons living in the district affected by the tornado place garbage cans on the curbs in front of their homes instead of in alleys, was made today by Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks. He explained that while all streets are now open, many alleys are still blocked, and that collection of garbage would be facilitated by compliance with his request.

SCHLEE COLLAPSES AT DETROIT BANQUET

Backer of Trans-Atlantic Flight Breaks Down After Return Home.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 5.—A series of celebrations and receptions in honor of Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, just home from one of the boldest flights in aviation annals, suddenly ended last night when Schlee, arising to speak at a banquet, collapsed and was carried from the hall.

Near exhaustion from their 38-day race against time, 195 hours of which were spent in the air in an attempt to set a new record for encircling the earth, Brock and Schlee were guests of honor at a banquet attended by more than 2000 persons.

Brock, called upon to speak, said his companion and sponsor of the flight would tell the story of the trip which ended at Tokio. Schlee arose, spoke a word or two, then fell back into his chair.

The guests, including Gov. Fred Green and Mayor John W. Smith, and many industrial leaders, quickly abandoned the banquet. Schlee responded to medical attention and shortly afterwards was able to be removed to his home.

The banquet was the final feature of a welcoming program which began yesterday afternoon when the big yellow plane which had carried the airmen across the Atlantic, over Europe and Asia and to Japan, dropped easily to a landing at the Ford Airport.

Several thousand persons joined the wives and friends of the two men in the welcome at the flying field. Henry and Edsel Ford took part in short ceremonies. At the City Hall other thousands were gathered. Everywhere the flyers were met with roaring applause.

Both men planned to rest several days, after which they indicated plans may be made for a second attempt to break the present globe encircling record of 23 days.

PART OF NIEMAN PROPERTY SOLD BEFORE WRIT IS SERVED
Failure to halt auction of defaulting businessman's Realty Due to Delay in Sheriff's Office.

A slip-up between the Sheriff's office and the Circuit Attorney's office caused a delay in serving injunction papers yesterday and failure to halt the sale of properties owned by Jack Nieman, defaulting professional bondsman.

However, only one of the properties, a flat building at 6016 Maple avenue, was sold. There were not sufficiently good bids on the others—houses at 2132 O'Fallon street and at 1221 South Seventh boulevard. J. I. Epstein Jr., trustee under second deeds of trust, auctioned the property at the Real Estate Exchange at noon.

Circuit Attorney Siderer had obtained temporary restraining orders from Circuit Judges Hall and Hartmann and placed them in the hands of the Sheriff at 11:19 a. m. Chief Deputy Sheriff Lang contends, however, that Siderer's assistant, who delivered the papers, did not tell him they were issued to stop a sale at noon. Lang did not bother to read the papers, but turned them over to a deputy for service. The deputy got service at 2:40 p. m.

Since there was no service Epstein cannot be cited for contempt. Judge Hall said, however, he would entertain a motion to set aside the sale. Bondsman Nieman owes the State $11,000 in bail forfeitures and Circuit Attorney Siderer is trying to collect.

4 BOYS WHO LIKED JOYRIDES HELD FOR STEALING 6 AUTOS
After Taking Machine of Man in Picture Show, Two Are Arrested and Admit Theft.

Because they liked to joyride, but did not have an auto, four boys—two 15 years old, one 16 and one 17—are being held at the North Market Street Police Station for the Juvenile Court, after admitting last night they had stolen six cars since the middle of September, in the vicinity of Ninth street and Bremen avenue.

Last night while William Nello, 1523 Mallinckrodt street was in a moving picture show, the 15-year-old boys stole his Chevrolet. About 9:30 o'clock they were seen by a resident of 3305 North Sixteenth street pushing the auto down an alley. By the time Nello reported the car stolen, Patrolman Austenfeld had found it deserted in the alleyway. The boys were found at Thirteenth and Branch streets.

In each case the cars have been found without gasoline, the joyride ending with an empty tank. A Buick was found in St. Louis County, that being the longest ride.

WOMAN, 72, KILLED BY TRAIN

Mrs. Eliza Bowen, 72 years old, of 1000 North Eleventh street, East St. Louis, was killed near her home early today when struck by a Louisville & Nashville passenger train.

PROPOSES COURTING IN CHURCH
DENVER, Colo., Oct. 5.—Dr. Ira Landreth of Chicago, citizenship superintendent of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, speaking at a rally of Denver Christian Endeavor Societies last night, advocated courting in churches as a means of attracting young people to church.

"Why not," he asked. "People get married in the church, so why shouldn't they do their courting there? It's a whole lot better than a young man should court his sweetheart in a church than in a dance hall or public park."

Landreth said that in a church there is a "sanctified atmosphere" and that a young man should court his sweetheart in a church than in a dance hall or public park.

STORM KILLED 78, CORONER FINDS ON REVISING RECORDS

Official List for Burial
Permits Contains 70
Names in St. Louis and 8
Persons on East Side.

7 CRITICALLY INJURED
REMAIN IN HOSPITALS

Injuries of More Than 500
Victims Reported Not Serious Enough for Continued Treatment.

An official revision completed today by the Coroner shows that 70 persons lost their lives in St. Louis in the tornado, in addition to eight killed in the Tri-Cities across the river, a total of 78.

More than 500 persons required medical attention for injuries not serious enough for continued hospital observation. Last Saturday, 48 hours after the tornado, 222 storm patients were in 23 St. Louis hospitals and one East Side hospital. Of these, 59 were discharged in the 72-hour interim ending yesterday and 16 new patients, not previously sent to hospitals, were admitted. Only seven of 159 remaining in hospitals today have injuries regarded by surgeons as critical.

ATTEMPT OF C. & A. TO OUST
PURPLE SWAN BUSES FAILS

City's Motion to Same Effect Also Denied by State Public Service Board.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 5.—

Motions of the City of St. Louis and the Chicago & Alton Railroad

Co. to set aside a State motor bus

permit of the Purple Swan Safety

Coach Lines, on the ground that the company has failed to obtain franchisees or permits from the cities and towns through which it operates, were denied without comment today by the Public Service Commission.

The city had intervened in the case to obtain a definite ruling on its contention that it has full regulatory power over bus lines as far as the lines come within its limits. The bus route in question is laid out over Highway 40 between St. Louis and Kansas City.

LIQUOR, AUTO AND 3 MEN HELD

Police at Bloomfield, Mo., seize

Auto, Owner Arrested at Sikeston.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 5.—

Two men are in jail at Bloomfield and a third at Benton as a result of the arrest last Wednesday in Dexter of T. L. Lannon and John Citius, both of Caruthersville, on charges of stealing an automobile. When officers took charge of the car they found about $150 worth of Canadian whisky and champagne in the car.

Later John Cid of Oden, Ill.,

who said the car was his, was arrested at Sikeston. He admitted ownership of the car and liquor.

Lannon and Citius are alleged to have followed Cid from Southern Illinois and when Cid left his car

at Sikeston for a few minutes, they are alleged to have taken it.

BE PRETTY! TURN

GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage

Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for

"Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved

by the addition of other ingredients,

for only 75 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened

your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

TORNADOES PURSUE HIM THROUGH LIFE

Gerard Pikey, Three Times a Sufferer, Says He Has Had Enough.

Gerard Pikey, survivor of three tornadoes, went to Red Cross headquarters in the Lindell cut-off yesterday afternoon to see what could be done about his latest misfortune.

A tornado struck rortageville in Southeastern Missouri when he lived there as a boy. In March, 1925, the Southern Illinois tornado tore through his home in West Frankfort. A few months later he moved to St. Louis and last Thursday the tornado wrecked his home at 3429 Klein street.

"This last one was the most destructive of the three," Pikey said. "I came off pretty lucky in it. I was just sitting down to eat with my family when it struck. I threw myself against the door to keep the wind out, but it tore through and rocked the house anyway. I could see the roofs of houses going off and trees snapping all around."

"Then the roof of our house went and the second story smashed in, but nobody was hurt."

"When it had passed, I started out of the door to see how my wife's sister living near here had come out of the tornado. Just as I started to step out, the gable tumbled down from the roof and blocked the door. I went out the back way. I've had enough of tornadoes."

Mother in Wrecked Home Saved Herself and Day Old Baby.

The first rescue workers to penetrate the vicinity of 3861 Lucky street after Thursday's tornado were told that a mother with a day-old infant lived at that address. The wreck of the house made it appear improbable that either could have escaped death. The roof had collapsed.

The workers forced their way in through the debris and on the floor near the front door found the mother with the infant clasped in her arms. She was taken to the St. Louis Maternity Hospital and yesterday had so far recovered that she was able to depart. She related that she was in bed with her baby on the second floor of the house, when the approach of ominous clouds warned her of a probably destructive storm. Despite her weakened condition, she arose from bed, took the baby in her arms, made her way from the second floor to the first and thereby undoubtedly saved her life and that of her baby. She is Mrs. Mary A. Fulgan.

Cabinetmaker's Misfortune.

It's just one bit of bad luck after another for Joseph Joquin, 64-year-old cabinetmaker.

Last Thursday morning Joquin returned to work in a furniture establishment after spending two months in city hospital and several more at home recovering from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile. Last Thursday night he arrived at his one-story cottage at 4505 McKinley avenue to find the roof and a portion of the front wall torn away by the tornado, and his wife, Betty, suffering from injuries about the head and shoulders caused by flying debris. The condition of the cottage was such that Joquin and his wife were forced to seek shelter at the home of a son in St. Louis County, pending reconstruction of their cottage.

Papers Blown 100 Miles.

Illinoisans within a 100-mile radius of St. Louis are getting souvenirs of the tornado without coming here.

A dollar bill, Central High School stationery and papers of a Delmar boulevard business firm were picked up by Fred B. Johnson, automobile dealer of Nokomis, Ill., on a farm near there, 100 miles from St. Louis.

As heretofore related, an enrollment certificate of the Speedway Business School, 2107 North Grand boulevard, was picked up in a barnyard near Butler, Ill., 65 miles northeast of St. Louis; a life insurance policy was found at Hillsboro, Ill., about 65 miles away, and St. Louis newspapers and other articles were blown into Litchfield, Ill., about 50 miles away.

SWINDLER'S DOUBLE CLEARED

Almost Sent to Prison for Life for Other Man's Crime.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Maxie Gottlieb's double is awaiting sentence for the swindle that almost put Maxie in Sing Sing prison for life. Five months ago Gottlieb was convicted of helping Abraham Wolf sell glass chips as diamonds to a shoemaker in Hicksville, and a shopkeeper in Hempstead, Wolf, now in Sing Sing, denied Gottlieb was his accomplice, but refused to name the guilty man.

Gottlieb was subject to life imprisonment under the Baumes law as a fourth offender. He declared he was innocent in the face of identifications by the victims. The jury did not believe him, but the judge decided to delay sentence and await developments. They came. Wolf, threatened by fellow prisoners in Sing Sing, gave out the information that resulted in the arrest of Abraham Schwartz, who looks very much like Gottlieb. Schwartz admitted his guilt.

500 SPECIAL POLICE GO ON DUTY TOMORROW

Their Dress Will Resemble That of Soldiers Whom They Will Relieve in Storm Area.

Five hundred men selected from among 3000 applicants were sworn in as special policemen at Police Headquarters Annex Building at 204 South Twelfth street at 9 a. m. today and will go on duty tomorrow.

As has been told, they were enrolled in order that national guardsmen and naval reservists who have been doing guard duty in the devastated area may be relieved and returned to their civilian jobs.

The special policemen will not look like policemen to those who see them. They will look more like guardsmen or regular soldiers, for they will wear khaki uniforms, campaign hats and regulation army shoes.

The things which will identify the special policemen are the police badges they will wear on the left breast and the absence of hat cords from their campaign hats. They will carry revolvers in holsters strapped at their sides.

Immediately after their uniforms, badges and revolvers had been issued to them, the special policemen were taken to the assembly room, where Chief of Police Gerk addressed them. They were told to be courteous and alert and to watch closely for looters.

Following this, the specials were taken to the police target range at Laclede Avenue Station, where each man fired 10 shots at a target. In the case of many of the special policemen, instruction was unnecessary since preference was given to former soldiers in hiring the specials.

Pet Canaries Lost After Tornado.

The announcement shown below was sent by "telephoto" to the New York World and the New York Times. It was also sent by air mail to the Chicago Tribune. The statement was prepared and published by the Post-Dispatch to give a better understanding of conditions in St. Louis.

St. Louis Has Quickly Recovered

The tornado in St. Louis last Thursday had scarcely bounded back into space before a magnificently organized city rose to relief work with a spirit that is typical of St. Louis. The official statements reproduced below show that St. Louis has met the situation.

A Statement by Hon. Victor J. Miller Mayor of St. Louis

St. Louis has again shown its stability by its remarkable recovery from the effects of the tornado which visited a section of our residential district last Thursday. Public utilities are rapidly restoring normal service. Stores and industrial plants are carrying on as usual.

No manufacturing plant of consequence was damaged. Labor is not disturbed or idle.

One of the problems which now confronts St. Louis is to obtain quickly the building materials and furnishings necessary to restore the buildings, home furnishings, etc., destroyed by the tornado.

There is plenty of work at good wages for every man at present in St. Louis, and the city is amply able to finance its own complete restoration in record time.

VICTOR J. MILLER

A Statement by Mr. Bert H. Lang Chairman Red Cross Committee

By proclamation of the Mayor of St. Louis immediately following the disaster, the St. Louis Chapter American Red Cross Disaster Relief Committee was proclaimed to be in charge of all relief measures.

The work of relief in the tornado area is well in hand. All acute cases of actual need have been located and relieved and all injured were placed in hospitals the first night. Food, clothing and shelter in excess of our needs are available.

The Finance Committee will raise all necessary funds within the city without soliciting outside aid which has so generously been offered, although gifts are gratefully received. Our citizens are responding magnificently.

BERT H. LANG.

A Statement by Mr. Harold M. Bixby President St. Louis Chamber of Commerce

While St. Louis is fully aware of the severity of any disaster, such as recently experienced, her citizens, having afforded immediate relief to the sufferers, now are looking to the immediate rebuilding of the area affected by the storm. New buildings of more modern and sturdy construction shortly will rise on the sites of those which were wrecked by the tornado. Of that there is little doubt.

St. Louis does not desire to minimize her suffering. The loss of human life cannot be minimized. But she does desire to point out the fact that only four square miles, of the sixty-four comprising the city, were affected by the tornado; that this district was principally an older residential one; that the total net damage to property is estimated at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Through the aid of commercial and industrial firms, which were not affected by the storm, and thousands of citizens, it has been possible to provide every means of relief for those whose homes were in the path of the wind. Although offers of outside assistance are deeply appreciated, St. Louis is able and feels that she should care for her own.

HAROLD M. BIXBY.

A Statement by Mr. John G. Lonsdale President St. Louis Clearing House Association

The disaster, however regrettable, particularly in its toll of death, was fortunately confined to a section less than one-tenth of the city's area. The vast unaffected portions thus spared, functioning in rapid response to the complete succor of their neighbors. Without any attempt to minimize the suffering, the property loss compared to major catastrophes will be small, indeed, not exceeding one per cent of the city's valuation.

A considerable portion of the damage was sustained among residences once occupied and still owned by the city's representative citizens, so the loss in these sections not only falls upon those capable of sustaining it, but is covered by insurance. This, of course, is not true to hundreds of other small home owners and tenants, to whom every assistance is being given. No recapitulation of this sort can assuage the sorrowing, but, as a sober statement of fact, it makes possible a more accurate estimate of the havoc.

JOHN G. LONSDALE.

A Statement by Mr. Frank M. Mayfield President St. Louis Associated Retailers

We do not believe that the tornado will have a depressing effect on retail sales in St. Louis. Monday's business indicates a return to normal business for this time of year.

We are optimistic and are expecting a fine Fall season.

F. M. MAYFIELD.

SAYS NAVY CRITICISM
WAS MISUNDERSTOOD

Even President Coolidge Did Not Understand Views, Admiral Magruder Declares

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Asserting that his criticisms of naval affairs in a recent magazine article had been misrepresented, and that even President Coolidge had misunderstood some statements, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, told members of the Philadelphia Forum last night, he was trying to "square" himself.

Speaking on "what's the matter with the navy," the Admiral said: "I have been the recipient, not the target, of the criticism from Washington for my remarks concerning the navy in a frank statement to fellow taxpayers. I have been sadly misrepresented and even President Coolidge has misunderstood certain of my statements."

"The President complained that I said the navy was over-officered. I believe he got that impression elsewhere. What I said was that the navy is over-organized. And so it is. The trouble with the navy is not with the officers or with the men, but that we are suffering from an increased centralization of authority or power in Washington."

"Our plan, in my opinion, should be decided without regard for the relative positions of other nations and without attempting a competitive scheme, but purely upon the requirements of our own nation. We should decide what we need, appropriate the money and then produce a navy with every dollar of that appropriation going into the active navy."

"I have stated that the navy is over-organized. I would take away admirals and officers from Washington and place them in active service on some of the ships that are tied up in the navy yards. Our great trouble with surplus officers in Washington is that each have stenographers who help them turn out so much detail for the active officers that there is very little left for the initiative of the men in charge."

"There are not too many officers and not enough men in the navy. We should carry a large force of officers during peace time."

"I am trying to square myself and present my views merely as personal opinions and the opinions of a naval officer with more than 40 years of experience in the navy. I seek no controversy and will never enter in controversy with any officer of any department in Washington."

WOMAN, FOUND TIED, SAYS
NEGRO BEAT AND BOUND HER Man Struck Her on Being Refused Food, Mrs. Rose Paselague Tells Police.

Mrs. Rose Paselague, 20 years old, reported to police that she was beaten and bound by a Negro, who forced his way into her home, 1309 North Jefferson avenue, at noon today, after being refused something to eat.

According to Mrs. Paselague, the Negro struck her with his fists and bound her hands and feet with a clothesline. She was found by her husband, Peter Paselague, and taken to a physician's office, where she was treated for bruises of the face and body. Mrs. Paselague described her assailant as short and stocky, wearing a dark suit and dark colored fedora hat. Nothing was taken from the house.

STORM REFUGEE ARRESTED,
ACCUSED OF ROBBING ANOTHER

Attendants Find Extra Bundle of Clothing on Lot of George Brecht, 19.

Charged with robbing a fellow refugee, a youth who said he was George Brecht, 19 years old, and gave an address on Armstrong avenue, was arrested early today at the St. Louis University gymnasium, 2668 West Pine boulevard.

Since Thursday's tornado, refugees have been sleeping on cots in the gymnasium. Following several sneak thefts, Brecht was ordered away, but did not go. At daybreak today Robert Snyder, whose home at 230 North Boyle avenue was wrecked by the tornado, reported a man had been searching the pockets of his clothes, but got nothing because pockets were empty.

Attendants then pulled Brecht from his cot, where he was lying with his shoes on. There was a bundle of clothes under his head.

Insurance Against Engine Repair

The first thing to do before making any extensive repairs or adjustments is to have the ignition checked and the spark plugs looked over.

Many times expensive repair bills are incurred and it is afterwards found that all that was needed was a new set of spark plugs. This because spark plugs in time deteriorate and need to be renewed.

Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and other great flyers check their lives on AC Spark Plugs in their epoch-making flights. You, too, can have the same spark plugs. See your dealer for the right type and size for your engine.

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if it is not cured after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

and a bundle on top of him. He identified the first bundle as one received by him from the Red Cross. Another refugee, George Mooney, 3900 Page boulevard, identified the second bundle as one given him by the Red Cross. Brecht said he did not know how the bundle came to be on his cot.

Brecht was treated at City Hospital for a lacerated head, suffered, according to police, when he resisted arrest and attempted to escape by running through a door, which was slammed in his face.

Man Who Shot Self Dies.
William Angerer, 50 years old, was found at 1:30 p. m. today in the kitchen of his home, 1415 Hamilton avenue, with a bullet wound in his head. He died on the way to City Hospital. A revolver containing one discharged cartridge lay near the body. Police, called by neighbors who heard the shot, learned that Angerer had been in ill health and was despondent.

Kremer Lacks Hoyt Is In Both Are

John Miljus Finishes Up for Nationals, Wilcy Moore for Hugging the Opposition.

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURG, Oct. 5.—The New York Yankees, 5 to 4, here this afternoon.

A crowd of 41,467 persons paid $18 national league champions were sent to the third inning, when the winners scored the runs and two bases on balls.

Neither of the starting pitchers, Ray Kremer for the Pirates and Walter Hoyt for the Yankees, was able to finish. The two right-handed aces saw John Miljus and Wilcy Moore pitching at the finish.

Kremer was forced from the box in the sixth when he started a threat with a double, Miljus going in to hold the Yankees to one hit and no runs for the remainder of the game.

Two stinging singles with one out in the eighth sent Hoyt away. Moore allowed Harris to single and score one run but he was untidy after that.

The game:

FIRST INNING. YANKERS—Combs hit the first pitch, flying deep to Barnhart, who made the catch near the scoreboard. Koenig struck out. Ruth singled to right. P. Waner overran Gehrig's short fly and it went for a triple. Ruth scored. Meusel filed to P. Waner. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES—L. Waner was hit by a pitched ball, which struck him on the shirt. Barnhart lined to Ruth. P. Waner doubled to right. L. Waner going to third. Wright sent a sacrifice fly to Combs. L. Waner scoring and P. Waner going to third. Traynor filed to Ruth, who made a fine running catch. ONE HIT, ONE RUN, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING. YANKERS—Lazzeri fouled to Traynor. Dugan filed high to Grantham. Collins walked. Grantham threw out Hoyt. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES—Grantham walked. Harris hit into a double play. Lazzeri taking the grounder, tagging Grantham and throwing Harris out at first. Lazzeri tossed out Smith. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING. YANKERS—Grantham threw out Combs. Koenig got to first on Grantham's fumble. Ruth singled to right for his second straight hit. Koenig going to third. Gehrig walked, hitting the bases. Meusel also walked, forcing in Koenig. Lazzeri forced Meusel. Wright to Grantham. Ruth scoring. Gehrig scored on a double steal and Lazzeri went to third when Smith let Traynor's throw go through him. Dugan lined to Barnhart. THREE RUNS, ONE HIT, TWO ERRORS.

PIRATES—Kremer got a two-base hit under the ground rule on his smash to right. L. Waner filed to Meusel. Barnhart got to first when Meusel dropped his fly. Kremer holding second. Kremer scored on P. Waner's single to center. Barnhart stepping at second. It was Waner's second hit. Wright forced P. Waner. Lazzeri to Koenig. Barnhart going to third. Traynor forced Wright. Koenig to Lazzeri. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, ONE ERROR.

FOURTH INNING. YANKERS—Collins filed to L. Waner. Hoyt filed to P. Waner. Barnhart made a nice catch of Combs' long drive. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES—Grantham grounded to Gehrig. Koenig threw out Harris. Smith popped to Collins in front of the plate. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING. YANKERS—Koenig doubled to right. Grantham took Ruth's grounder and beat him to the bag. Koenig going to third.

NEBRASKA TO MEET CRIPPLED MISSOURI TEAM

Three Backfield Stars, Clark, Flamank and Tuttle Probably Will Not Start Because of Injuries.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 5.—Not since Grant Henry's first year as coach at Missouri when injuries swept through the backfield and left him with only a handful of midget backs has the Tiger mentor faced a situation so fraught with difficulties as that which confronts him today as he is putting the final touches to the Tiger eleven which is to meet Nebraska here Saturday, and at the same time casting about among his reserves seeking material to stop the gaps left by injuries in last Saturday's conflict with the Kansas Aggies.

To be sure, reserves now are more plentiful and beefy than five years ago, but the eleven which Henry placed in the field last Saturday against the Wildcats and the one which he must knit together to attempt to meet Ernest Bear's Crimson horde this week are starting in their contrast.

Last week it was an all-veteran eleven—with the exception of Bob Mehrie, who edged his way in at fullback—polished for mid-season form, which romped over the Aggies with a decisive victory. This week the veterans are sitting mournfully on the bench, nursing sprains and fractures, while they are hoping against hope that the youngsters, Missouri's second best, may be good enough to turn back the Nebraskans.

Here is what Coach Henry will be short Saturday, according to the present outlook: His best center, his best punter, his second best punter, his two best line plungers, his best forward passer and his best receiver of forward passes.

Clark's Bad Ankle Still Wreaks.

A sprained ankle suffered by Bert Clark two weeks ago all but wrecked the Tiger aerial attack and while it flashed into being momentarily on one or two occasions Saturday against the Aggies, it was nothing to be proud of. But the Missourians were sure that Clark would have recovered fully by this week, and that the full aerial strength of the Missouri eleven would be ready for the Huskers. Instead of that, Clark is still limping, and Captain George Flamank has a knee so badly injured in the Aggie game that he can scarcely walk. And Flamank is the constant passer on the Tiger squad. Likewise, it was on Flamank that the punting burden was to fall when Tuttle was injured, and on Flamank that the line plunging burden was also thrown with Tuttle's passing from the picture.

None of the injuries is expected to handicap the Tigers for more than two or three weeks, but in two or three weeks the Nebraska game will have been written into the conference championship history, and the Tigers will have either topped their highest hurdle in their quest of the flag, or will have stumbled and fallen by the wayside.

If Henry's charges do not fall by the wayside, it will be the reserves who save them. Later in the season the situation would not be so crucial. Henry used 25 men against the Aggies, and another game or two like that would have given the youngsters experience and finish that could have sent them headlong into the fray, calm and confident. But Saturday, it is going to be new freshmen and Missouri's hopes rest on how the youngsters conduct themselves under fire.

Mehrie Certain to Start.

Henry has devoted this week of secret practice so far to an examination of the strength of various backfield combinations, and as yet the starting lineup appears to be anybody's guess. Mehrie, the lone sophomore to start last week, will probably get the call again. He performed admirably against the Aggies.

Diemund is in good shape, and is certain to be another of the starters, while Flamank, if he is able to play at all, will probably start. If Flamank can punt the fourth backfield position will be in doubt, but if the Tiger captain's condition does not improve any more than now seems likely, Evans will probably be in the lineup to kick. Of course, there are several days remaining for Clark's ankle to round into shape, and he may start, though the probability is that he will sit on the bench. Henry's ace in the hole, ready to go in at a crucial time, and in good enough condition to play a few downs.

PRINCIPAL TO PLAY

SOLDAN HIGH FRIDAY

Getting away to a delayed start on account of adverse weather, Principia Academy will open its third season with a game against Soldan High Friday afternoon, to be played on the Principia field, at Page and Montclair. Money derived from the sale of tickets will go for the benefit of the school. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

BEAR FRESHMEN STOP RESERVES WITHOUT SCORE

Varsity Second Stringers
Fail to Please Coach Higgins in Scrimmage.

The Washington University football grab-bag is full of surprises this season. Yesterday while the Bear varsity rested, the reserves were unleashed against a group of ambitious freshmen who surprised even their coach, Johnny Davis.

The varsity reserves have been championing at the bit, as few have been used in the two Bear victories to date. It was expected they would run riot over the yearlings, who have been in practice only a week.

But instead of a triumphant march to victory for the varsity representatives, they encountered stiff opposition. The frosh not only succeeded in holding the reserves scoreless, but showed a series of ground gains in plays which had the varsity men with their hands to the wall on several occasions.

Coach Bob Higgins watched the scrimmage with little evidence of satisfaction. While the freshmen give promise of valuable material for next year, Higgins had announced his intentions of using a number of reserves against Rolla. Whether the resistance which the reserves met will influence his decision when arranging his line-up, he refused to say.

The Bear pony backfield in which Millard, Harding, Rawdon, Aze and Lehring were included, ripped off some good gains. The best was an off-tackle dash by Lehring. In the line for the reserves, Shimmers and Drake at tackle stood firm, while Jablonsky and Paris at guard worked hard. The defense as a whole, however, did not show as expected.

For the frosh, Usman, quarterback; Kearns end, and Butts, center, starred. Usman is the fastest moving backfield prospect on the Washington campus since Al Hayes matriculated. The Illinois lad has done the 220-yard dash in 21 seconds. Loomis and Hornsby, halfbacks, and Springer, fullback, also played well. Kearns, end, is a transfer from St. Louis U. Butts from Soldan was for three years the all-intercollegiate selection for center.

Scarcity of Line Stars Worries Coaches in East

Majority of Mentors Are Experimenting With Various Players.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Scarcity of outstanding linemen in the East is keeping a number of coaching staffs at their wits' ends. At this time last year the play of Connaughton, 275-pound Georgetown guard; Wickhorst, the Navy tackle; Sprague and Eddy, Army tackles; Vic Hanson, Syracuse end; Brode, Brown Wingman, and Strehahn, the Yale guard, was being praised.

Coach Arnold Horween at Harvard has been experimenting at tackle berths with O'Connell, end, and hatch, a quarterback. With these changes made the varsity developed a bad case of butting fingers. The scrubs yesterday lost over two touchdowns during an epidemic of fumbling that hit the varsity. Following the ball game, the scrubs made one run of 35 yards and another of 45 yards on fumbles.

Coming in advance of Harvard's exceptional game with Purdue Saturday, the effect did not seem to be optimism, and the coaching staff had a few pointed remarks.

Tigers Show New Backs. Princeton, getting ready for the Michigan game, had a new backfield. Bill Roper put Wilmer, Miles, March and Requaert in for the varsity's scrimmage. Requaert, who got away for a 60-yard run last week, is getting a chance at the quarterback position. Lehigh is working up on its forward pass game.

Changes have been made in the Pennsylvania lineup, and when the Blue comes to grips Saturday with Brown's "iron men," the varsity will comprise the backfield.

Brill, Scull and Wascelotte probably will comprise the backfield. Navy, priming for Drake University, is polishing up its aerial attack. All four members of the backfield can throw and receive the forward pass equally well.

Two changes in the backfield were made in the line have been made by Tad Jones at Yale. The coaches have devoted considerable time to defense for the University of Georgia.

Army is getting lots of hard work for the game with Marquette. The unsatisfactory showing of the Cadets last week against the scrubs provided many points for coaches to work on, and "Biff" Jones hopes to put an improved line on the field Saturday.

SPORT SALAD

PRO AND CON

THE Pittsburgh Pirates and the Yanks

Are causing quite a lot of talk. The Pirates say they've talked planks. Off which the Yankee crew will walk.

They'll tie a cannon ball to Shocker. And send him down to Davy's locker.

The Yankees say of Captain Kidd, He must have on his kidding clothes; That he is due to hit the skid; Conviction on them daily grows.

With shot and shell the Yanks will plink 'em, And to the bottom promptly sink 'em.

The Pirates are a fighting crew Who love the smell of battle smoke; The Yankees have some slug-gers, too, Who tote around a lethal joke.

But answering the many queries, We do not know who'll win the series.

But, boy, believe us if we did, How promptly we'd hypothesize. The sugar bowl without a lid, And all the other family plate!

And on the winner bet the boodle Be it Buccaneer or Yankee Doodle.

Quite So. In the present series it seems as though interest would center around the Waner brothers and the home-run twins. While the Waners are blood brothers the twins are only adopted brothers.

Have adopted the same method of getting rid of the ball.

"Famine Wins Third Race At Creve Coeur." War and Pestilence also ran.

That's So. In view of the recent tornado probably it is just as well that the Cards didn't win the pennant. This year you can send your check certified or otherwise to the Red Cross instead of the Red Birds.

In accordance with their annual habit the National League managers and players are picking the N. L. entry to cop the w. s., while the American League employees are stringing with the A. L. contender. And all of them advancing equally pertinent reasons why their selection should come rambling in with the bacon.

That's one thing about the grand old pastime as played on paper. One guess is as good as the other and the second guess is the best of all.

The Waner brothers are called "Big and Little Poison." Ruth and Gehrig, the home-run twins, might justly be labeled, "Death and Destruction."

Kiki Cuyler, one of the heroes of the 1925 world series will be a spectator this year unless he breaks into the lineup as a pinch hitter. That's how good the Pirate outfield is.

To "Oil" Smith will be assigned the task of rounding up the Yankee goats if any. As a goat herder "Oil" has quite a reputation but owing to their familiarity with the world series surroundings the Yankee goats are not easily stampeded.

Even the angora of Mark Kneeling which at one time was inclined to wander off the reservation will stay hitched under the toughest barrage of billingsgate.

Polishing Up Pass Attack Takes Up Greater Part of Billiken Practice Period

Coach Mathews Also Uses "Dummy Team" During Work-outs — It's Just Work, Work and Then More Work for the Varsity Football Candidates.

When Bob Mathews went to college, the time had not yet arrived when the campus outfit London in setting men's styles. A sweater with a high neck was one of the most indispensable articles of apparel for all seasons of the year. Football men were masculine persons with acorn haircuts that served for headgear and pants were usually pretty baggy. The athletes did not go in so much for dances as they do today and between studies at night, they took a fling at somebody's furnace or ashpit. The art of wasting time had not reached its present high state of development.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5.—Fair skies and the return of fall weather yesterday in the Missouri Valley saw the Valley mentors beginning to correct mistakes, switch their lineups and pushing their squads hard for the long schedules ahead. Interest in the circuit centers in the rival Nebraska and Missouri camps which teams meet Saturday in the only conference game.

Coach Ernest Bearg and his staff at Lincoln are far from satisfied with the Huskers' showing against Ames last Saturday and reports indicate Bearg is preparing to take the air to beat Missouri at its own game.

Bert Clark, Tiger back whose ability to snare passes last year defeated the Nebraska, has returned to practice at Columbia after an enforced layoff caused by a twisted ankle, where Coach Henry also is busy on aerial drill. Capt. Flammack and Clark are drawing much of Henry's attention.

Coach Maulbatsch has his Oklahoma Aggies still smarting from their Washington defeat, practicing at Charleston College, Northfield, Minn., within a few hours ride of Minneapolis, where they engage the Minnesota team Saturday.

Drake's football squad got in its last home drill yesterday as the Bulldogs entrained last night for Annapolis where they meet the Navy Saturday.

Jayhawkers in Stiff Workouts. The Kansas Jayhawkers, the unknown quantity in the Valley, went through a long drill yesterday afternoon getting ready for Wisconsin. Coach Workman at Ames is centering on a passing attack to defeat Simpson College Saturday, while Grinnell has two weeks to get ready for the Cornhuskers.

By the Associated Press. MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 5.—Reggie Noble, veteran defense player of the Montreal Maroons, was sold yesterday to the Detroit Cougars of the National Hockey League. While the price involved in the transaction was not disclosed, it is understood to be approximately $10,000. It was said here that Noble probably would be selected to captain the Detroit team, which is being completely revamped for the season, following the appointment of Jack Adams as manager.

SWANSON DENOUNCES FRENCH TARIFF POLICY

Ranking Democrat on Senate Foreign Committee Says Paris Favors Former Enemy.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—France's method of dealing with the tariff controversy has been neither wise nor farseeing, Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declared in a formal statement yesterday.

Warning that if persisted in, the French policy might produce friction between the two countries, Senator Swanson added: "By refusing to the United States the most favored nation treaty, France has put herself in the attitude of discriminating in favor of Germany, a former enemy, and against the United States, a former ally. 'France's position is an inconsistent one and the high protectionists there now dominate France as inconsistently, as the high protectionists now dominate in the United States.'

"France, if wise, will not refuse to grant to the United States, a most favored nation treaty and the extreme protectionists there will soon learn, like the extreme protectionists here, that fair and reasonable tariff rates are a fair and prosperous trade between nations, are preferable to prohibitive rates; and that the only way trade relations can be maintained without producing international ill-will is by most favored nation treaties which accord equality of treatment to all."

Coolidge to Insist That France Show No Discrimination.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—It was indicated yesterday at the White House that President Coolidge, in the forthcoming negotiations with France, will insist that American imports into that country be not discriminated against.

The President feels that the chief question involved is solely one of discrimination, and that all other phases of the Franco-American tariff controversy are subordinate. The White House conference is expected to result in a firm reply to the French memorandum in which administration officials thought they saw a way out of the controversy.

It was made clear that the United States is asking no favors and objects to France seeking to give the world a contrary impression. America is looking for no preferences, but will insist that no discrimination be practiced against American exports to France.

The President feels the United States is entitled to the same treatment accorded by France to other countries in commercial intercourse and the American reply is expected to be quite emphatic in its demand that discriminations against American goods be removed.

While the volume of American trade affected by the greatly increased French tariff rates is not large in relation to our total exports, ranging from perhaps $10,000,000 to $20,000,000, the President objects to the principle of discrimination.

Concerning the French contention that certain agricultural products of that country are kept out of the American markets by American sanitary regulations, it was stated that some American animal and other agricultural and other products find the French market closed to them by the same device.

KEEP YOUR APPETITE YOUNG

If the things you used to like disagree with you, take a tablet of Pape's Diapiesin after a meal. It displaces the excess acid in the stomach, sweetens your food and digests it. The nourishment from it produces good, healthy tissue and blood; you gain weight and strength, and with that comes a healthy, youthful color.

Thousands of people who suffered from stomach trouble for years, praise Pape's Diapiesin for their good health and young appetite. They can now eat anything they want. That's why 5 million packages are used a year.

Any druggist will supply you with Pape's Diapiesin, because it is indispensable in every home.

FALL-SINCLAIR TRIAL TO BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

Government Counsel Anticipates No Further Delay in Case Involving Teapot Dome Plot.

78 PROMINENT MEN
CALLED TO TESTIFY

Case Had Been Postponed Because Two Witnesses, Missing Since Exposure, Were Still in Europe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The trial of Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil man, and ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall is to open Oct. 17 before Justice Frederick L. Siddons in District of Columbia Criminal Court No. 2. The trial was postponed from last spring at the request of Government counsel who were seeking the return of important witnesses in Europe. No further delays are anticipated.

The first oil conspiracy trial resulted in a defeat for the Government when a jury here found Fall and Edward L. Doheny Sr. not guilty of defrauding the Government in the leasing of Elk Hills, California, reserve.

The Government, however, won the civil suit when the Supreme Court held that the lease was "tainted with corruption" and ordered the return of the property. Sinclair and Fall are charged with conspiracy in leasing the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, naval oil reserve.

A spectacular trial is anticipated. Cabinet members, past and present, high Government officials, and leaders in the oil industry are included in the 78 subpoenas issued by the Government.

Government counsel are Atlee Pomerene, ex-Senator from Ohio, and Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia, specially appointed by the President to handle the oil cases. Counsel for Fall is a d. Sinclair include Martin W. Littleton of New York, George P. Hoover of Washington, William E. Leahy and Mark B. Thompson. Thompson defended Fall in the Doheny trial.

A conviction for contempt of the Senate is standing against Sinclair for refusal to answer committee questions in the Teapot Dome inquiry. He has appealed. Bribery indictments against Fall, Doheny and E. L. Doheny Jr. are pending and will be tried as soon as the Fall-Sinclair trial is completed.

FAVORS VACATING STREETS FOR GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

Director Brooks Approves Company's Request to Clear Site for New Plant.

Following a conference with representatives of the General Electric Co. and executives of business organizations of the city, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks today announced he would present bills to the Board of Public Service, providing for the vacating of several streets in northwest St. Louis, as a site on which the electric company desires to erect a plant. The site comprises 22 acres of land in the city and 11 acres adjoining in St. Louis County.

The streets which the company desires the city to vacate are Parkridge, Birch and Stratford avenues. The strips to be vacated measure about 1000 feet in length. Some of these streets, it is said, are built up. In turn, the company promises to vacate ground it owns north of Edelle avenue, so the city may, if it elects, continue Goodfellow avenue through.

'TAY PAY' O'CONNOR 79 TODAY

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 5.—Thomas "Tay Pay" O'Connor, noted member of Parliament for the Scotland division of Liverpool since 1885, and still an acting editor, celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday today.

"The one drawback of old age," O'Connor said, "is that you survive so many of your earliest and dearest affections." Except for twinges of rheumatism, O'Connor is in excellent health and still continues to tap out copy on a typewriter in his office day after day. Incidentally, it was he who introduced the typewriter into the House of Commons 40 years ago, because even the hardest oldtime printer was baffled by his handwriting. In his earlier years, when "Tay Pay" was even better known in Fleet street than he was to the Irish and English speaking world at large, the printers were paid extra for setting type from his handwritten copy.

Again Attempts Channel Swim.
CAPE GRIS NEZ, France, Oct. 4.—The indomitable Miss Mercedes Chada, London typist, started her sixth attempt to swim the English channel at 12:35 a. m. She was escorted by a Folkestone fishing boat. The weather was fine, the air and water so chilly that it was not believed she would be able to endure the swim for any great length of time.

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

Parson Weems Revived

A HISTORY OF THE LIFE AND DEATH, VIRTUES AND EXPLETS OF GENERAL GEORGE WASHINGTON. By Parson Weems. (Macy-Mastus.)

DEVOTEES of the biography of disilluminated, who gloated over the two iconoclastic lives of Washington published last year, would give themselves the pleasure of contemplating this picture of a perfect man as drawn by pious Parson Weems, "formerly Rector of Mount Vernon Parish."

It is true that Weems was neither pious nor a parson, nor was he ever rector of any parish. He was a sentimental old snide with an eye for the main chance, and he made a very good living by writing tracts and biographies. Nevertheless, he had more to do with the creation of the traditional George Washington, as millions of American school children have conceived that hero, than any other agency except incorrigible human credulity.

Weems' biography of Washington first appeared in 1800, and it ran into something like 70 editions. This fact should commend the volume to our modern public, for surely if so many people liked the book well enough to buy it, there must have been great merit in it.

In 1806 the highly imaginative parson issued a new and enlarged edition of his masterpiece, for during six years of most gratifying success the old rascal had "discovered" new matter of importance, one item of which was the famous cherry tree yarn that has puzzled and disgusted so many healthy little boys. The present edition contains that gem.

"The next morning, the old gentleman (George's father), finding out what had befallen his tree, which, by the by, was a great favorite, came into the house; and with much warmth asked for the mischievous author, declaring at the same time, that he would not have taken five guineas for his tree. Nobody could tell him anything about it. Presently George and his hatchet made their appearance. 'George,' said his father, 'do you know who killed that beautiful little cherry tree yonder in the garden?' This was a tough question; and George staggered under it for a moment; but quickly recovered himself, and looking at his father, with the sweet face of youth brightened with the inexpressible charm of all-conquering truth, he bravely cried:

"I did it, father, with my hatchet. 'Run to my arms, you dearest boy,' cried his father in transports, 'run to my arms; glad am I, George, that you killed my tree; for you have paid me for it a thousandfold. Such an act of heroism in my son is more worth than a thousand trees, though blossomed with silver, and their fruits of purest gold.'"

PROPOSING USING MULLANPHY FUND TO REPLACE HOSPITAL

Isaac A. Hedges Points Out That There Are Few Immigrants Who Require Aid.

A public statement issued yesterday Isaac A. Hedges, manager of the Washington University Cupola property, joined other St. Louisans who have protested in past years that the "frozen" endowment of the Mullanphy Immigrant Relief Fund be used for some other purpose than its donor specifically intended.

Hedges proposes that the fund, which now totals about $1,000,000, be used to replace the Mullanphy Hospital building, destroyed in the tornado. The decision of courts in past years have been against such proposals, however.

Bryan Mullanphy left the fund for the aid of needy immigrants bound for the West, which was just opening up in his day. Since then the number of proper subjects of the charity has dwindled almost to nothing and much of the annual income of $40,000 is returned to the fund.

After the 1896 tornado, however, Mayor Ziegenhein proposed that the fund be used to replace the City Hospital destroyed by the storm and the project was overruled by the courts, which held that the letter of Mullanphy's will must be followed.

MISS YEOMANS WEDS

W. R. COMPTON JR.

Ceremony Performed in Country Club Christian Church at Kansas City.

THE marriage of Miss Margaret Morris Yeomans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Seabury Yeomans of Kansas City, and William Randolph Compton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Compton of 18 Kingsbury place, took place last evening in the Country Club Christian Church of Kansas City. Preceding the ceremony a program of organ music, including "In a Monastery Garden," to the accompaniment of chimes, and "Oh So Fair," from Martha, was played by Mrs. George Hamilton Combs. The Rev. Dr. Combs read the service.

The altar was banked with cydonium ferns and clusters of Easter lilies and lighted by cathedral candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in a draped model of white chiffon velvet embroidered in pearls and made with round length skirt. Her train was of rose-point lace, and her pearl embroidered tulle veil was arranged under a cap of rose-point caught low at one side with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried Easter lilies and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Rawlings Howard Collins, who attended her sister as matron of honor, wore French blue chiffon, trimmed in fringe and embroidered in crystals. Her bouquet of pink lilies and gypsophylla was tied with streamers of pink satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Turner Clarkson of St. Louis, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Simpson Yeomans, Miss Elizabeth Bowersock and Miss Edna Handley, all of Kansas City, were gowned alike in straight-lined gowns of chiffon in shades from pale pink to deep rose, trimmed in crystal, and carried round bouquets of shaded pink dahlias and blue delphinium tied with silver.

Randolph P. Compton of Scarsdale, N. Y., was his brother's best man, and Turner Clarkson, Lyra Schroeder, John Jay Johns, Eugene Sloan, and William King Gardner, all of St. Louis, and Willis Wilcox of New Orleans, groomsmen.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, with Mr. and Mrs. Compton Sr. assisting. Mrs. Yeomans wore a gown of transparent silver lace, embroidered in pearls and crystals and carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Compton's gown was of black velvet and her flowers an arm bouquet of red Scott-Key roses tied with silver.

The receiving rooms were decorated with pink roses, baskets of chrysanthemums, palms and ferns. The wedding cake, which formed the centerpiece for the supper table, was arranged with yellow and bronze dahlias and blue delphinium.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton will reside, after their return from their wedding trip, at 6246 Northwood avenue.

The bride is prominent in Kansas City society and is president of that chapter of the Junior League. She is a graduate of Smith College. Mr. Compton is a graduate of Princeton University and is a member of the St. Louis Country, Racquet and University clubs.

Invitations have been received for the wedding of Miss Catherine Marie Stoltman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Stoltman of the Clayton road, and Edward A. Grose, Tuesday morning, Oct. 18, at 10 o'clock in St. Joseph's Church in Clayton. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Stoltman will have her sister, Miss Adele Stoltman, as maid of honor, and Miss Rose Mary Craig, Miss Adelaide Grose, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Katherine Earls of Cincinnati, bridesmaids. Carl Schulte will be best man, and Henry Brinkworth, Claude Zwart and William Brick of Minneapolis, groomsmen.

Parties for the bride-elect are numerous. She shared honors recently with Miss Josephine Brickworth, who will marry Reynolds Modert this month, at a bridge luncheon given by Miss Charlotte Telman, and was guest of honor at a similar party given by Mr. Grose's sisters, Mrs. Malcolm McManis, Mrs. Edwin Sanders and Mrs. George Gessler Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret Deves will be hostess at a bridge luncheon at the Sunset Hill Country Club for Miss Stoltman and Miss Josephine Brinkworth, and Saturday Mrs. O'Neill Farrington and Miss Rosemary and Miss Margaret Schiedinger will give a similar party at Hotel Chate. Thursday, Oct. 12, Miss Craig will entertain the bridal party.

Plain words about trading-in your present car

THE largest allowance offered by a dealer for your present car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.

An excessive allowance may mean that the new car has been excessively priced—in which case you are simply robbing Peter to pay Paul.

Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market. Any greater allowance should be carefully checked against the merits of the new car as compared with its purchase price, including all delivery and finance charges.

It is wise to remember that when you turn in your present car for a new car you are making a purchase and not a sale. You want full new car value no less than full value for your present car.

Carl Schulte will be best man, and Henry Brinkworth, Claude Zwart and William Brick of Minneapolis, groomsmen.

Parties for the bride-elect are numerous. She shared honors recently with Miss Josephine Brickworth, who will marry Reynolds Modert this month, at a bridge luncheon given by Miss Charlotte Telman, and was guest of honor at a similar party given by Mr. Grose's sisters, Mrs. Malcolm McManis, Mrs. Edwin Sanders and Mrs. George Gessler Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret Deves will be hostess at a bridge luncheon at the Sunset Hill Country Club for Miss Stoltman and Miss Josephine Brinkworth, and Saturday Mrs. O'Neill Farrington and Miss Rosemary and Miss Margaret Schiedinger will give a similar party at Hotel Chate. Thursday, Oct. 12, Miss Craig will entertain the bridal party.

Invitations have been received for the wedding of Miss Catherine Marie Stoltman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Stoltman of the Clayton road, and Edward A. Grose, Tuesday morning, Oct. 18, at 10 o'clock in St. Joseph's Church in Clayton. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

GRAIN MEASURES LOWER

GRAIN FUTURES UP ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Increased selling that was associated with movement of the new spring crop in North America caused a sharp rise in wheat prices today.

It was reported that Canada was offering wheat abroad. Corn as well as wheat showed a heavy demand from foreign speculators aggressive in the selling and with support for the market price.

lower, corn $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ down; oats unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ off and provisions showing $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ decline.

Grain and feed markets weather and predictions of more, wheat and corn both went lower. Buyers are in sustained demand for early corn. In winter wheat, the second early line turned values downward. Oats fell $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ decline, which rallied to above yesterday's finish. Corn and wheat contracts were unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ off, recovered somewhat and then underwent a material setback.

Relative weakness of wheat quotations in Liverpool today gave an advantage at times to the selling side of the market here. Apparent absence of important immediate new export business continued to be a weight on the market, and local hedging pressure from the Northwest. In this connection bears contended that for the first time the market is at a minimum and the supply virtually at a maximum.

Prices in the corn market today were not only in the face of unfavorable weather of conditions but notwithstanding reports of a hard which were construed to indicate that the amount of this year's crop, which is merchantable may go as low as 1,500,000 bushels. Such a total, it was estimated out, will be the smallest since 1904.

Brown Shades in Favor for Street Wear in New York

By ANNE AVERY-AMES

FIFTH AVENUE was "at home" last week. The autumn season opened with a centennial celebration of real interest at one store and fashion showings at the important shops all along the avenue from the Waldorf to Fifty-seventh street.

Shades of brown are prominently displayed for daytime clothes. There are all tones—rusty browns, fawn shades, golden browns of velvet fabrics shot with metallic threads and rich coffee browns of felt hats. In tweeds, where the color is less distinct, due to the weaving, brown and tan shades are easy to wear. But most women should not select brown unless they are sure the skin coloring and hair will permit this choice.

Beige or fawn shades, with the darker browns in accessories like the felt hat, shoes, bag and even fur piece (for one of the Fifth Avenue shops is showing the small marten scarf) to complement the brown ensemble) are far easier to wear. When correctly contrasted or harmonized, different shades of brown in a costume are attractive. One smart shop has a new brown velvet ensemble from Chemnitz which has white wolf fur trimming on collar, sleeves and around the lower part of the coat.

Black Accessories Good.

Black for day and evening is always smart. The new wrappy coats with their deep fur collars set well back on the shoulders are often seen in black. The smartest fur coat for the winter—broadtail—is black. The velvet afternoon frock or ensemble is usually seen in black. Very few women can wear black alone, however, but all of us can build a smart costume upon a black foundation. One of the smartest entries at the fashion pageant held last week was Patrice "Charlie." This is a town frock combining black wool jersey with black satin for the blouse of the frock.

Black and beige is definitely chic. Although the combination is not particularly new, beige fur on the black winter coat is most effective. Black with gray is a good combination, but less seldom seen. Grayish tweeds with black accessories—the silver fox scarf, black velour or felt hat, suede oxfords (not patent slippers) and new gun-metal hose—are correct for town wear.

For fall, mixtures and prints have largely taken the place of solid colors. Jerseys and velvets are shot with metallic threads, and small dots or tweed patterns appear in velvet and crepe fabrics. Two colors which the shops are showing are green and red, the red tones varying from Chanel red to the canna shade and the greens with a bluish or opal cast. Certain shades of blue with a mauve cast are seen in new sports knitted frocks.

Rhinestone Jewelry Chic

Velvet, the luxury fabric for our luxury age, is used for gowns, wraps and small hats. Black velvet in a simply made evening gown with the V front, the uneven hem line, absolutely untrimmied and worn with rhinestone jewelry makes the smartest evening costume of the season. Satin, which can hardly be called new, since its vogue has run right on through the summer, is also very good for evening. Like the black velvet gown, the white satin gown is worn as a background for jewels. At Deauville, Lady Davis started the vogue by appearing in a white satin gown and a ruby and diamond necklace.

The important daytime dress materials are angora jersey, wool, jersey, wool georgette which doesn't look like wool at all, tweed and, of course, velvet. All these materials are as light and fine as silk and as easy to handle. For evening, satin, satin crepe, velvet, moire and the metal brocades are used. Chanel's beaded crepe frocks might almost bring in another fabric, for the material is used as a ground for the beaded design.

With not much change in the line of coats, the interest has shifted to the fur trimming. The more formal coats have collars of the flat fur, caracul, Persian lamb, broadtail. The sports type of wrap has the long-haired fur collar, often coming only over the shoulders in front and placed well off the shoulders to give a dagger air. Coats without fur collars and even fur coats have attached cuffs.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Leaves the Dear Old Briar-patch

The one who never will give in May have his way and still not win.
—Old Mother Nature.

IN THE dear Old Briar-patch there was a great deal of unhappiness. Oh, dear, yes! Peter Rabbit was unhappy. Little Mrs. Peter was unhappy. Indeed, they were not on speaking terms, and that, you know, is a very dreadful thing. They had quarreled. Little Mrs. Peter had declared that she would not leave the dear Old Briar-patch for a home elsewhere else. Peter had lost his temper and declared that he was going away. Little Mrs. Peter had told him to go ahead, but that if he did he needn't think he could come back. Then Little Mrs. Peter had gone over to the far side of the dear Old Briar-patch and pretended to be very busy there.

All the rest of that day Peter sat in his favorite bramble-tangle and sulked. Yes, sir, he sulked. He considered himself the most abused rabbit that ever lived.

"She thinks I won't go, but I will," he kept saying over and over to himself. "She won't go so ahead. Whenever I want to go anywhere I've got to take a chance and cross the Green Meadows. Then I've got to take a chance to get back again. She thinks I won't go, but I will. If she wants to live here, all right; she can live alone. I guess I can get along without her."

It seemed to Peter that the Black Shadows never would come creeping out from the Purple Hills. That was a long day. But at last he saw them come creeping across the Green Meadows. He waited until they had reached the edge of the Green Forest. Then he hopped along on his familiar little paths over to where little Mrs. Peter was.

"I'm going," said he, gruffly. "I'm going. Will you come along with me?"

"I certainly will not," replied little Mrs. Peter. "And don't forget what I told you. If you go, you needn't come back."

"Don't worry," retorted Peter. "You'll never see me back here. I'm sorry you won't come, but if you won't come, you won't. I'll never bother you again as long as I live."

With this Peter turned his back and hopped away along one of his private little paths to the other side of the dear Old Briar-patch. He looked carefully in all directions this way and that, to be sure that the way was clear. Then he headed for the Old Pasture. Twice he stopped to look back. Right down to his heart he hoped he should see little Mrs. Peter hurrying after him. But he didn't see little Mrs. Peter.

"He left me," she kept saying over and over again.

hurry after him. He didn't for the very good reason that little Mrs. Peter wasn't hurrying after him. He didn't see anything of her at all. He tried to think he didn't care, and hurried on toward the Old Pasture.

Now, although he didn't see little Mrs. Peter, Peter was watching him. She had stolen over to the edge of the dear Old Briar-patch, where she could see but couldn't be seen, and there she watched Peter going hip-ty-ty, hip-ty-ty, across the Green Meadows toward the Old Pasture. A big rat gathered in each eye as she watched him go. Twice she almost started to follow him, but in the end she went back and sat in her favorite form and wondered how she was going to get along without headless, happy-go-lucky Peter Rabbit. Yes, sir, that is just what she did. But she was obstinate, was little Mrs. Peter. "He left me," she kept saying over and over again. "I didn't leave him; he left me."

Where the Valance Is an Advantage

VALANCE may be used to advantage in a high-ceilinged room with large windows. When properly used it gives a sense of finish and completeness which is lacking where draperies alone are used, says Needlecraft Magazine.

Plain, gathered valances, being easily laundered, are best adapted to bathrooms, kitchens and informal bedrooms. Fitted or shaped valances on the other hand, suggest permanence and dignity and are better suited to the more formal rooms. The box-plated and French headings give a smart and professional finish to a valance.

Seen on Fifth Avenue

The tiny eye veil is returning to the mode. Of course, this should be only worn with very elaborate daytime clothing.

Furs on the smartest cloth coats are interestingly applied. Instead of caressing the ears, they are fastened on the shoulders, leaving the neck quite bare.

Muffs are coming back again! One of the smartest of Paris dress-makers insists on a tiny one to complete her more dressy costumes. One of the these, to go with a tan coat trimmed with beaver, is also of beaver, cut to overlap like an envelope, the tabs being fastened with a brown leather strap.

Moulded Ham.

Take a slice weighing three or four pounds from a cold boiled ham. Put the meat through the copper twice, and add a quarter cupful of prepared English mustard, two tablespoonsful of sugar, a saltspoonful of red pepper and two teaspoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce which have been dissolved in a half cupful of hot water. Add two tablespoonfuls of gelatin. Next fold in three-quarters of a pint of dry whipped cream. Turn into a wet mold and set to harden. Turn out on lettuce leaves, or garnish with sliced olives, hard boiled egg whites, cut in odd shapes, and sprays of fresh parsley. Serve a tartar sauce with the sliced meat.

Outside—the clamor of New York's activities. Inside—the allure of restful guest rooms, designed for ease and comfort!

Don't Ignore Acid Scalp!

We have all been too close to people whose hair had a noticeable odor. It is due to an acidity that soap and water are powerless to prevent. You may not have acid scalp. Or you may have it and not know it. But dandruff should make you suspicious, and hair that "strings" is a sure sign.

When hair has a dull, "dead" look after curling—and the wave is all out a few hours after use of the iron—it is time to use Danderine. Just a few drops of this highly scientific preparation will check acidity, and give your hair such lovely softness that dressing it will be a delight. It will arrange easily, and stay as you arrange it. Every particle of scale will be dissolved. It makes an amazing difference. And for only thirty-five cents, your druggist will give you a bottle of Danderine that will last for weeks!

THE DREAM THAT DIDN'T COME TRUE

By WINIFRED BLACK.

Oh, the books—the beautiful, brand-new books. All bound in leather and beautifully lettered, they came in sets, a dozen at a time.

Dickens and Thackeray, Victor Hugo and Alphonse Daudet, Hawthorne and Bret Harte, Kipling and Famous Poets and the Oxford Book of Verse, also modern verse—Gene Field and his Lyrics of Childhood, James Whitcomb Riley and all the rest. Dear me, what an array of reading.

Laura has been years buying them—years and years.

You see, Laura worked for a living, she worked well and she earned a good living—secretary to somebody or something down town—good salary, good hours and pleasant work.

Laura was preparing to live, so every month, she paid so much down and so much to follow and she bought curtains and table cloths and towels.

She embroidered the towels and she hemmed the curtains and she made the curtains of a medium length so that they would fit any medium window. Two or three rugs she bought and the laundry basket and little lamps with pretty shades and table ornaments—books and pictures.

"Some day," said Laura, "I'm going to be married and when I marry I'm going to have a home and when I have a home I'm going to have a husband and he and I will look at the pictures and we'll read the books—together."

Finally Laura's long dream came true. She met a man and he thought she was a nice, capable girl; just the very kind of woman he wanted for a wife. She thought: "What a splendid man and how happy I will be able to make him." They were married and Laura's business associates gave her a dinner set. The man's business associates gave Laura some table silver and Aunt Mabel bought some new rugs and hung the curtains she had already made and put up the pictures and bought some book shelves and put up the books. Then she settled down for a nice long honeymoon—reading and talking and having little parties. Well, the parties she did have.

Her friends and husband's friends, but somehow they didn't seem to hit it off so very well. Her friends played pinocle.

His friends played jazz and her friends played high-brow music—so the parties soon came to an end, and when a husband came home from town he didn't seem to want to talk much—ah, now is the time for reading.

Laura took down volume one of one of the sets.

"Yes," said Husband, "that will be nice," and he read aloud for an evening.

The next evening Laura read aloud.

On the third evening Husband read to himself—a detective story, "The Mystery of the Marsh"—and you know, he never reads a thing but detective stories and he reads one of them every single night.

Laura doesn't know just what to think.

It's mean of her friends to laugh, isn't it? But somehow—

The man's business associates gave Laura some table silver and Aunt Mabel bought some new rugs and hung the curtains she had already made and put up the pictures and bought some book shelves and put up the books. Then she settled down for a nice long honeymoon—reading and talking and having little parties. Well, the parties she did have.

Her friends and husband's friends, but somehow they didn't seem to hit it off so very well. Her friends played pinocle.

His friends played jazz and her friends played high-brow music—so the parties soon came to an end, and when a husband came home from town he didn't seem to want to talk much—ah, now is the time for reading.

Laura took down volume one of one of the sets.

"Yes," said Husband, "that will be nice," and he read aloud for an evening.

The next evening Laura read aloud.

On the third evening Husband read to himself—a detective story, "The Mystery of the Marsh"—and you know, he never reads a thing but detective stories and he reads one of them every single night.

IRVIN S. COBB

Just as the miserly man sat pompously down, a chunk of the ceiling was loosened to the point of falling down. And down it came, soaking the tightwad brother squarely on the top of his brilliant bald head. All a-splutter, he disengaged himself of the mess of dust and plaster and rising again, he had this to say: "Put me down, Mr. Pastor, for $100. I didn't know that the work was so badly needed." Whereat an old Deacon, over in amen corner, falling hurriedly to his knees and tremulously facing heaven, besought: "O, Lord, hit him again!"

THE pointer for today is: WHEN UNABLE TO TAKE TWO FINISHES, SELECT THE ONE MOST APT TO SUCCEED. Yesterday's Hand.

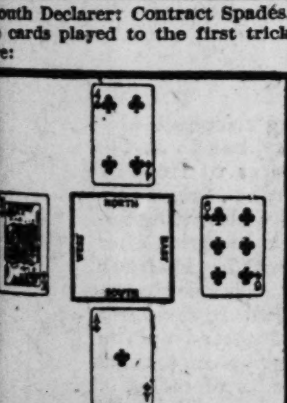

South Declarer; Contract Spades, the cards played to the first trick were: West led King of Clubs; South played Ace of Clubs; East played Five of Clubs; South Ten of Clubs.

My answer all names the four cards that should be played to the second trick as follows: North should lead Deuce of Diamonds; East play Five of Diamonds; South lead Ace of Diamonds; West Four of Diamonds.

The reason for the above are: from the viewpoint of the Closed Hand finesses are desirable in both trumps and Diamonds. The desirability of exhausting the adverse trumps would be an argument in favor of selecting the Spades for the finesse; but with only one Spade in Dummy and a total of seven in Declarer's hands there is little chance of finding the six adverse Spades divided. King and Ace in the East hand and four in the West hand. With any other division of the trumps, the finesse in that suit would not gain. With two Spades in Dummy, the situation would be very different.

In the Diamond suit the Dummy has led twice and there is every chance of capturing the King of Diamonds. Declarer can see that he must lose two Heart tricks and may lose the King of Spades and the King of Diamonds. To make game he must "kill" one King and it is more important to do this than it is to lead the trumps immediately. His best chance is to lead Diamonds twice from Dummy. A jump lead to trick two would prevent the two Diamond finesses so essential to success.

Mystery.

IN JUNGLE depths are hidden mysteries, down trackless ways of rank and matted grass, amid the tropic splendor no man sees the strange, gay birds and stealthy creatures pass. Dim mysteries lie waiting far away in lands forgotten, with flaming lights, with stars where no foot goes. They lure, they call, these ancient mysteries forever beckon to the restless soul. For, it, untrodden lands, uncharted seas must ever be a promise and a goal. But down the quiet pathway where I tread through tranquil hours, my untrodden land round here, too, the dream of mystery is shed, here, his beauty may be hourly met. Here waits the mystery of dawn and seed, the mystery of dawn, bird and bee, of sure supply meet life's every need, the hint of God behind all mystery.

TEACHING YOUR BODY TO THINK—NO. 3

Exercise Mentalization for Busy Men Who Would Be in Their Prime at Sixty, and Masterpieces at Eighty.

By MRS. THEODORE PARSONS.

THERE was a time when the body was considered as something distinct and apart from the mind. Intelligent people now know them to be partners. As to which is the senior partner there may be difference of opinion. My method, which I call mentalization of the body, presupposes that the partnership of mind and body is so close and so interdependent that activities have to be evenly balanced if either is to be efficient and healthy, and that this balance must be maintained, as in any ideal partnership, for as long as the union lasts.

The question may be asked: Can one partner increase his power at the expense of the other? The answer is: This is being done every day—in offices by men who wield pens, in excavations by men who use pickaxes—in all sorts of occupations.

For some excellent exercises it is not even necessary to stand.

ations. Any extreme regime of either mental or physical work which uses up all the reserve energy is bad for both mind and body. It is no longer enough to enlighten the brain. The body must also be taught to think and that is my concern. Everything we do to stimulate mobility of the body helps it and tends to keep it young. Men of 50 and 60 should still be in their prime and should look forward to being masterpieces at 80.

In my former articles I prescribed exercises for girls and matrons. In this article I shall give a few good and simple exercises for men whose business responsibilities compel them to sit at desks for longer hours than any one should sit indoors. Men who spend their days in offices need not droop and die young because they have no place to exercise. All they need is enough room to stand and stretch their arms and legs. For some excellent exercises it is not even necessary to stand. They may be taken in a desk chair.

TO have perfect poise sitting, standing or walking it is important that the spine should be relaxed. Any accentuation of the hollow in the small of the back, achieved by pushing the base of the spine backward, is bad for the entire system. When the end of the spine is down and relaxed the abdominal muscles automatically assume their correct responsibilities which, if maintained at all times standing, walking, sitting, will keep the figure straight and slender.

Seven different sections of the body must be taught to think in constant harmony in order that the weight may be properly distributed and balanced and perfect poise and a graceful carriage assured. This seven-fold expression of balance is incorporated in the correct standing position, the basis of all right bodily exercise.

Because it is impossible to understand posture without it, I must again describe the standing position with its seven points:

Weight on balls of feet; knees in balanced position; abdomen in; end of spine down and relaxed; weight on lower ribs; chest high, head held softly.

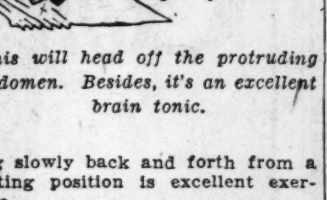

By swaying forward and back from the ankle joints, chest leading, one can soon come to feel the perfect rhythm of this standing position. Sway until you feel it. Here is a posture exercise for the entire body: Stand in perfect balance in a relaxed condition. Sway forward and back from the ankles a few times. Spread feet thirty inches apart. Throw arms high at full length, fingers spread. Stretch as high as possible. Bending slowly from hip joint, place palms on floor. Take four forward steps with palms down. Reacting down, place head on the floor between palms. This exercise causes a gentle flushing of the blood through the brain area.

Nature has given man splendid muscles for supporting and balancing the body. Some of the most important of these lie across the abdomen and are strong and as elastic as the stoutest India rubber. Wherever abdominal muscles are properly utilized there is no abdominal enlargement—that ghastly bulging which more than anything else mars the figures of men who should still be more boys at fifty.

These abdominal muscles can be taught to think for themselves can be so accustomed to doing their daily work that if you attempt to relieve them of their responsibility they will immediately send a message to the brain demanding that they be allowed to carry their weight. The moment you shift to the spine or elsewhere the weight that belongs to the abdominal muscles you set up a sort of civil war in your own body, one set of muscles protesting against doing the work that belongs to another set, the idle muscles protesting against having their natural work taken away, and as a consequence the whole mental and physical body will be unbalanced from this disorder.

THESE exercises, which may be taken in an armchair, will develop and strengthen and contract the abdominal muscles until they form a sort of natural corset to keep the figure in place. Sit erect in your chair. Lean forward until your face is on a level with or between the knees. Bend ing slowly back and forth from a sitting position is excellent exercise. Sit away back in armchair. Spread knees as far apart as possible. Stretch arms out above knees, palms down. Inhale as hands are raised high above head. Exhale as you lean forward and place chest on the knees, dropping hands to the floor, head dropping between the knees.

Sit at extreme forward edge of armchair, feet placed comfortably on the floor 12 inches apart. Clasp arms of chair with both hands. Raise chest high. Drop head back as far as comfortably possible. Draw body forward with both hands gripping chair. Repeat as often as can be done without fatigue.

"Splendid!" I reply. "Lose your balance until you find it." For it is true that you never will find your correct balance until you lose it a few times. There are great depths of truth in that Scriptural paradox that says we must lose our lives to find them.

Deep breathing is a potent corrective for spinal, abdominal or any other body ills. Breathe until you feel your ribs breathe, letting the expansion be at the sides and back rather than at the front, taking care to keep the spine and abdominal muscles in position. Conscious breathing is of great assistance in building character, self-reliance and a sense of personal power. Try these breathing exercises: Stand with right foot diagonally forward. Swing right hand high in the air, shifting weight to forward foot, inhaling deeply. Exhale as the arm returns to position. Reverse. Repeat four times.

LEAN forward, arms outstretched, fingers at knee line. Sip the air. Raise hands a foot higher. Sip again. Raise hands to shoulder line. Sip again. Throw hands high in the air, sipping until the lungs are filled. Exhale as hands, palms forward, are lowered in great circles to the sides. Repeat four times.

Wherever the partnership of brain and body has kept up a healthy pace, the brain, instead of growing foggy at 40, will push on from 60 to 80—sometimes to 90. As energies begin to wear away it is the brain that keeps the body young. Properly educated muscular power.

Chocolate Mousse

PUT a three-quart mould in a wooden pail, first lining the bottom of pail with fine crushed ice and a thin layer of salt. Pack the space between the mould and pail solidly with fine, crushed ice and coarse salt, using two quarts of salt and enough ice to fill space. Now, whip one quart of cream until nice and stiff, being careful not to whip too much. Now put in a small pan one of 3 of unwetted chocolate, cut in pieces, three tablespoonful of sugar and one tablespoonful of boiling water. Stir over fire until smooth and glossy and then add three tablespoonful of cream. Now sprinkle one cup of powdered sugar over the whipped cream and add one teaspoonful of vanilla. Then pour the chocolate in a thin stream into the whipped cream, stirring gently until well mixed. Wipe out the chilled mould and pour cream into it. Cover well and then place a little ice lightly on the top. Cover pail with wet burp bag or a piece of wet carpet, set away for three hours. Because day in and day out the men work with their minds and their bodies while too many women in lives of protected leisure do neither.

Nation-Wide Kindergarten Movement Led by Woman

More than 300,000 children throughout the United States have received the benefits of kindergarten training as a result of the efforts of Beale Locke, executive secretary of the National Kindergarten Association, whose efforts have been centered on securing kindergarten education for all of the nation's children.

Back in 1909 Miss Locke, who at that time was connected with the New York Kindergarten Association, saw the need for a national association. Its object, she felt, should be to arouse interest in the subject of kindergartens, to persuade the people in each State to work for better State kindergarten laws, and to induce the school boards to open kindergartens in the public schools.

As a result of this vision the National Kindergarten Association was organized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phelps of New York City and incorporated during the same year. In 1912 the Association affiliated with the National Kindergarten and Elementary College of Chicago and from 1913 to 1919 Miss Locke was chief of the Kindergarten Division of the United States Bureau of Education.

Since its founding the National Kindergarten Association has taken the initiative in arousing men's and women's organizations to work for better kindergarten legislation. Through their combined efforts improved laws have been passed in Nevada, Maine, Texas, Arizona, South Dakota, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin. The work is being carried on in other part of the country directly from the main office in New York City.

These laws provide for the establishment of kindergartens on the petition of parents. Most of them require that the petition be signed by the parents of 15 children of kindergarten age, residing in one school district. Some of these laws are mandatory and some merely permissive. Three mandatory laws were passed in 1927.

At the beginning of 1927, the National Kindergarten Association had been instrumental in opening 735 kindergartens in 443 towns. "Despite this progress record, which we are trying to present to mothers at the Women's Art and Industries exposition," says Miss Locke, "there are still 4,946,000 children of kindergarten age in this country for whom no kindergartens have been provided. Perhaps this is due to the fact that the association is entirely supported by voluntary gifts and it cannot afford field workers in every State and city."

At present, the association has field workers in California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Wisconsin, Kansas, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Mexico and Iowa.

The BENSON MURDER CASE

by S.S. VAN DINE © CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

A woman's gloves and handbag are found at the scene of Benson's murder and Markham, tracing them to Miss St. Clair, has her brought to his office. She makes flippant answers to his questions but betrays concern when Markham asks if Leacock had not owned a Colt .45, the same type of gun that killed Benson. Vance tells Markham he is certain of the girl's innocence.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

(Saturday, June 25, 8 p. m.)

WHEN we arrived at Benson's house a patrolman leaning against the door of the garage came suddenly to attention and saluted.

He eyed Vance and me hopefully, regarding us no doubt as suspects being taken to the scene of the crime for questioning by the district attorney. We were admitted by one of the men from the homicide bureau who had been in the house on the morning of the investigation.

Markham greeted him with a nod.

"Everything going all right?"

"Sure," the man replied good-naturedly. "The old lady's as meek as a cat—and a swell cook."

"We want to be alone for a while, Sheriff," said Markham, as he passed into the living-room.

"The gastro's name is Snitkin—not Sniffin," Vance corrected him, when the door had closed on us.

"Wonderful memory," muttered Markham churlishly.

"A failure of mine," said Vance. "I suppose you are one of those rare persons who never forget a face but just can't recall names, what?"

But Markham was in no mood to be twitted.

"Now that you've dragged me here, what are you going to do?" he waved his hand deprecatingly, and sank into a chair with an air of contemptuous abdication.

The living-room looked much the same as when we saw it last, except that it had been put neatly in order. The shades were up, and the late afternoon light was flooding in profusely. The ornaments of the room's furnishings seemed intensified by the glare.

"Vance glanced about him and gave a shudder."

"I'm half inclined to turn back," he drawled. "It's a clear case of justifiable homicide by an outraged interior decorator."

"My dear aesthete," Markham urged impatiently, "be good enough to bury your artistic prejudices, and to proceed with your problem. Or, worse, if you add, with a malicious smile, 'if you fear the result, you may still withdraw, and thereby preserve your charming theories in their present virgin state.'"

"And permit you to send an innocent maiden to the chair?" exclaimed Vance, in mock indignation. "Pie, pie! La police alone forbids my withdrawal. May I never have to lament, with Prince Henry, that 'to my shame I have a traitor bent to chivalry.'"

Markham set his jaw, and gave Vance a ferocious look.

"I'm beginning to think that, after all, there is something in your theory that every man has some motive for murdering another."

"Well," replied Vance cheerfully, "now that you have begun to come round to my way of thinking, do you mind if I send Mr. Snitkin on an errand?"

Markham sighed audibly and shrugged his shoulders.

"I'll smoke during the opera bouffe, if it won't interfere with your performance."

Vance went to the door and called Snitkin.

"I say, would you mind going to Mrs. Plant's and borrowing a long tape-measure and a ball of string. . . . The district attorney wants them," he added, giving Markham a sycophantic bow.

"I can't hope that you're going to hang yourself, can I?" asked Markham.

Vance gazed at him reproachfully. "Permit me," he said sweetly, "to commend Othello to your attention: How poor are they that have not patience! What would it ever heal, but by degrees—"

Or—to descend from a poet to a plattitudinarian—let me present for your consideration a pentameter:

"Forgive me for contradicting"

"Theoretically very pretty," commented Markham; "though why you should go to so much trouble to ascertain this point in space I can't imagine. . . . Not that it matters, for you have overlooked the possibility of the bullet's deflection."

Bending over the rug, Vance moved the large wicker chair into the exact position it had occupied when Benson had been shot.

you," smiled Vance; "but yesterday morning I questioned Capt. Hagedorn at some length, and learned that there had been no deflection of the bullet. Hagedorn had inspected the wound before we arrived; and he was really positive on that point."

In the first place, the bullet struck the frontal bone at such an angle as to make deflection practically impossible even had the pistol been of smaller caliber. And in the second place, the pistol with which Benson was shot was of large bore—a point-forty-five—and the muzzle velocity would have taken a straight course even had it been held at a greater distance from the gentleman's brow.

"And how," asked Markham, "did Hagedorn know what the muzzle velocity was?"

"I was inquisitive on that point myself," answered Vance; "and he explained that the size and character of the bullet and the expelled shell told him the whole tale."

"That shows he knew the gun was an army Colt automatic—I believe he called it a U. S. Government Colt—and not the ordinary Colt automatic. The weight of the bullets of these two pistols is slightly different: the ordinary Colt bullet weighs 200 grains, whereas the army Colt bullet weighs 230 grains."

"Hagedorn, having a hypersensitive tactile sense, was able, I presume, to distinguish the difference at once, though I didn't go into his physiological gifts with him—my reticent nature, you understand."

However, he could tell it was a forty-five army Colt automatic bullet; and, knowing this, he knew that the muzzle velocity was 409 feet, and that the striking energy was 329—which gives a six-inch penetration in white pine at a distance of 25 yards."

"This amazing creature, this Hagedorn. Imagine having one's head full of such entrancing information! The old mysteries of why a man should take up the bass-fiddle, or a life work and where all the pins go, are babes' conundrums compared with the one of why a human being should devote his years to the idiosyncrasies of bullets."

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

By Mildred Ash.

STRANDS of golden glory to be a poetic way of describing the beauty of a woman's hair; but now it is equally applicable to her costume jewelry. Among the smartest novelties of the season are neckties and bracelets created from numerous strands of gold. The broad shaker of the cuff-like armlet, each has huge, brightly-colored semi-precious stones in its clasp.

Paris grows primitive in playful hours. For evening wear she dons those that are practical, invisible—so evenly are they matched to the bare skin. The sunburnt, shaded, with a smattering touch of rose, are very smart. Pale colors, such as fresh pearl blush, are also greatly favored.

True to blue, Parisian style is using a very rich, deep, blue shade for the unlined evening wraps to be worn for formal wear.

Festively fashionable are gowns of flowered, glazed cottons, when carried with light summer frocks. The tiny floral pattern shows each individual flower in a square or quilling. These under arm bags are flat, large and rectangular.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addresses and envelopes. Parents would have a right to insist on church and Sunday school attendance in the case of minor children; the same applies to the right to insist on their eating certain foodstuffs. The right of the minor to leave home and board elsewhere when working is not dependent upon the circumstances. Ordinarily parents could prohibit a minor child from leaving the home as to pay earned by a minor, the father is entitled to it if the child is living in his home.

They Are Washable.
Don't be afraid of washing your china and cretonne coverings and draperies if they seem too soiled to put up this fall. Wash them in tepid water in which white soap flakes have already been dissolved and they will not run. Rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature. Good rinsing is as important as the washing, as it insures clear colors.

GEORGE REMUS, BOOTLEG 'KING,' KILLS HIS WIFE; SURRENDERS

Shoots Her as She Leaps From Taxicab to Escape From Him in Park at Cincinnati.

DIVORCE CASE HAD BEEN SET FOR TODAY

Husband Tells the Police He Lay in Wait for Mate—Held for Murder Without Bail.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—George Remus, former "king of the bootleggers," today fatally shot his wife, Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, 33 years old, in Eden Park, after a chase which started soon after she had left the Alms Hotel.

Mrs. Remus and her daughter, Ruth, 19, were on their way to the office of Edward T. Dixon, her attorney, preparatory to appearing in Domestic Relations Court today for the hearing of her divorce suit against Remus. The action was to have been contested by Remus, who has been bitter against his wife since she filed the suit while he was serving a term in Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. One of her grounds was that Remus was a felon. In his answer Remus made charges against his wife, involving Franklin J. Dodge Jr., former Department of Justice agent.

Taxicab Forced to Curb. When Mrs. Remus and her daughter entered a taxicab at the hotel about 8 a. m., they had no idea that trouble impended, the daughter said after the shooting. The cab was driven by Charles Stevens. That they had been followed developed when the taxicab was crowded to the curb by a big limousine just below the bridge at the entrance to the park.

As Stevens stopped his car, Remus jumped from the limousine. On Mrs. Remus' order, Stevens then shot his taxicab ahead. Remus' car again headed off the cab farther on. The daughter attempted to jump out but was restrained by her mother, who leaped out of the taxicab and attempted to run.

Remus grabbed her and a struggle ensued. According to the daughter, Remus placed the muzzle of a revolver against his wife's abdomen while they were struggling and fired one shot. She fell in his arms, but he dropped her, getting into his machine and being driven rapidly away by his companion.

The chase and shooting attracted hundreds of motorists, who were on their way to work, through the park. Mrs. Remus was taken into a passing car to the Bethesda Hospital, the daughter accompanying her. At the hospital Mrs. Remus was taken into the operating room. She died at 10:45 o'clock.

According to Stevens and onlookers, the daughter, Ruth, tried to save her mother. While Remus was attempting to get his revolver into position, the daughter pulled and tugged at his collar and arms. She also attempted to hold him after the shooting, onlookers said.

Remus Surrenders to Police. Within a half hour after the shooting Remus walked into the Central Police Station. Visibly excited, he said: "I want to give myself up. I've shot my wife."

"Where's the gun?" asked Lieut. McNeal, as yet unaware of the shooting.

"I don't know."

Remus then explained how, seated in his automobile he had waited at Victory boulevard and McMillan street until he saw his wife and daughter leave their hotel and enter a taxicab. He followed through the park until he forced the taxicab to the curb, commanded his wife to alight, and standing before her, fired.

"How many times did you fire?" he was asked.

"I don't know."

"Did you hit her?"

"I hope so," Remus declared.

Remus told Lieut. McNeal that after shooting he ran toward Eden Park gate and was given a ride by a motorist to the Pearl street station, where he took a taxicab to police headquarters. Taken later to Eden Park, he was unable to find the pistol, which he said he threw away.

Says He's Glad He Shot Her. He continued to say he was glad that he shot his wife.

"Why should you be sorry?" he asked a photographer who exclaimed:
